

Electric Costs Rise Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price Americans paid for electricity jumped 30 per cent last year due primarily to higher fuel costs, according to a report from the Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA authorized the study to determine how much of an effect antipollution measures were having on electricity costs, and reported these only accounted for 5 per cent of the increase.

However, EPA Administrator Russell E. Train noted that "increases attributable to environmental regulations may increase over the next five years as the utilities phase in capital expenditures for pollution control."

The report, released Thursday, said that "1974 saw an unprecedented increase in the cost of electricity." It estimated that total revenues of the electric industry totaled $40 billion during the year, an increase of $9 billion over 1973.

Thus, for the average American, the price of one kilowatt hour of electricity rose from 1.97 cents to 2.57 cents, the study said.

The report said that on average electricity rates increased 23 per cent for residential customers and 33 per cent for commercial and industrial users of electricity to make the average 30 per cent.

"Consumers along both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts were the most seriously affected by the higher rates, the report said. And "New England and the Middle Atlantic regions, which historically have had the highest electric rates, also had the highest rates of increase during the last year."

The report said fuel prices accounted for 60 per cent of the higher electricity costs. Nonfuel electricity costs increased only 16.8 per cent during the year, with the largest factor in this category the rising interest rates on borrowed money, the report said.

Fuel-switching from high sulfur to low sulfur coal and oil, and coal-to-oil and coal-to-gas conversions of generating plants accounted for only 2.5 per cent of the higher costs, the report said. In addition, the report estimated that about 8 per cent of utilities' capital expenditures were attributable to environmental factors.

The report was prepared for EPA by the independent research firm of Temple, Barker and Sloane, Inc.

European Accord To Provide Only Rights Principals

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials are more than a trifle defensive when they discuss the declaration that President Ford and leaders of 34 other governments will sign next week in Helsinki.

After two decades of prodding, the Soviet Union will finally gain acceptance of the postwar map of eastern Europe. In return, the West mostly gets some high-sounding but tenuous "human rights" principles.

The document, which is not legally binding, allows for peaceful changes in borders. But this provides scant hope that Moscow's hold on eastern Europe will be relaxed and change will have to come from within the Warsaw bloc, the way Romania has achieved a measure of independence in its foreign policy.

As for the human rights concessions, such as reunification of divided families and freer movement of "ideas," journalists and security, they also are not legally enforceable and depend on Soviet good will. To the very end of two years of weary negotiations and drafting of the declaration, the Soviets fought for and obtained qualifications and conditions in every liberal provision.

The idea of an European collective security treaty was first proposed by Moscow in 1954. The West has tried to tie it to parallel negotiations to reduce Russian ground forces in Europe. These talks remain stalled in Vienna, but Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev will have his declaration and 35-nation summit to crow about at the 25th Communist party congress next February.

The Americans were never very excited about the conference. Privately, the highest officials were sometimes amused by the relentless debate among some 600 delegates over the placement of a comma, the translation of a phrase. Mostly, the United States went along with the tide.

In the U.S. view, the result is a political document that can serve as a "takeoff" for traditional treaties that would make the human-rights provisions binding. More important, it serves detente, the policy that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has pursued between the Nixon and Ford administrations. Another bond has been struck between East and West, giving promise of more understandings, such as a projected treaty to limit offensive nuclear weapons.

On a practical level, President Ford will seize the opportunity of the summit setting to talk to Brezhnev about verification and other outstanding issues that are blocking completion of the weapons pact. Unless they are resolved, Brezhnev's planned visit to Washington this fall will be delayed — or held without a treaty signing.

Moreover, in the Helsinki declaration the Soviets make the gesture of agreeing to give 21-day advance notice of maneuvers involving 25,000 soldiers or more within 175 miles of their western borders. This applies also to Soviet troops in East Germany or elsewhere.

Whether the document would restrain the Soviets from applying the Brezhnev doctrine, the self-proclaimed right to intervene in a Warsaw bloc state, or from meddling in Portugal, is highly problematic.

'Biggest' County Fair Opens Gates Sunday

HEAVE HO—Members of the Pickaway County Agricultural position bleachers as they prepare for the 1975 fair. The fair begins

Sunday at noon and ends Friday night. Paul Dean, fair board president, predicts one of the biggest ever.

The 30th annual Pickaway County Fair which officially opens its gates to the public noon Sunday and runs through Friday could easily be the biggest ever according to Paul Dean, president of the agricultural society.

An opening ceremony is planned promptly at noon in front of the coliseum. Fair officials, Pickaway County Commissioners Dick Tootle, Donald Strous and L. Robert Liston, State Representative Myrl Shoemaker, State Senator Oakley Collins will participate in the ceremony.

Dean backs up his belief that this fair will be the biggest and best ever on the outstanding grandstand attractions, two days of harness racing with pari mutuel wagering, the NTPA sanctioned tractor pull and the increased interest in junior fair programs as well as the traditional agricultural competition.

The NTPA tractor pull will attract some of the biggest tractors in the nation along with some of the top pullers.

Tractor pulling as a spectator sport, has come into its own during the past few years and the pull at the Pickaway County Fair which is sponsored by the Central Ohio Pullers Assn. is recognized as one of the top events on the tour.

A new tractor pulling strip has been constructed in the infield at the fairgrounds, readily visible from the grandstands. In addition, bleacher seats with a capacity of 1,060 persons have been reconditioned and additional bleachers with a capacity of about 800 persons have been rented from Teays Valley High School to provide added capacity for tractor pull fans.

After the opening ceremonies, the schedule on Sunday includes the 4-H bicycle rodeo and dog show, a tobacco spitting contest, the garden tractor speed pull in front of the grandstand and the talent and king and queen

Spacemen Rest After Whiff Of Gas

ABOARD USS NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The three Apollo astronauts detected a yellow gas that "caused burning and irritation in the eyes" during their return to earth Thursday and remained in sick bay on this ship today as a precaution.

Doctors said a preliminary examination of astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton "does not show any apparent medical problems" and the sick bay confinement was called "a precautionary measure."

This Navy carrier headed for Hawaii, meanwhile, bringing the astronauts to their first landfall since they hurtled away from earth 10 days ago to establish a beachhead in space with the Russians.

The astronauts told flight surgeons they detected the gas after their Apollo craft was parachuting toward a Pacific Ocean splashdown. They immediately donned oxygen masks, but the gas "caused burning and irritation in the eyes."

Officials said the gas was apparently nitrogen tetroxide, an oxidizer used in the propellant of the Apollo's small rocket thrusters. The chemical is very corrosive and can cause death if inhaled in sufficient concentration.

The men of Apollo splashed down 330 miles west of Pearl Harbor. This helicopter carrier is expected to arrive at Pearl Harbor about 3:15 p.m. EDT today.

One of the Navy swimmers who leaped in the ocean beside the spacecraft moments after splashdown said the astronauts pushed open a hatch from the inside.

"They said they wanted to get some fresh air as soon as possible," said Lt. Thomas Kleehammer, head of the frogman team.

Normally, the Apollo hatch is not opened until after the craft has been placed aboard the recovery ship.

Their sick bay confinement forced the astronauts to miss an evening of shipboard festivities. They had been scheduled to attend a steak and lobster dinner and to cut a cake decorated with the Apollo-Soyuz flight patch.

Stafford, Slayton and Brand showed little evidence of the gas problem during brief welcoming ceremonies just after their spacecraft was hoisted on board.

All three delivered short remarks and appeared to walk with ease.

They appeared haggard, but observers credited this to exhaustion from their nine-day space trip. Brand, at one point during the ceremonies, was seen to rub his face.

Doctors first learned of the gas problem when the astronauts told of it in the ship's sick bay. The physicians canceled plans for a thorough physical examination and sent them to bed immediately.

The astronauts will leave Pearl Harbor by jet transport early Saturday morning and arrive in Houston about 10 a.m. EDT for a reunion with their families.

It will be at least another four years

Weather

Mostly sunny today and Saturday, high, both days, low 80s. Clear tonight, low, upper 50s. Probability of precipitation, 10 per cent today and zero per cent tonight and tomorrow. Temperatures Thursday were: high, 87; low, 63.

before U.S. astronauts again fly into space. They'll go again when a reflyable rocket ship, the Space Shuttle, is ready.

As the astronauts rode the New Orleans toward a docking in Pearl Harbor later today, the leaders of the United States and Soviet Union hailed the success of Apollo-Soyuz and spoke of future cooperative space ventures by the two nations.

The cosmonauts, Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov, returned to earth Monday after two days of joint flight with the Americans. They, too, sent their congratulations to Stafford, Brand and Slayton.

President Ford telephoned the astronauts minutes after they were recovered with his congratulations.

Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev messaged Ford that the flight was "an important milestone in cooperation between the USSR and the USA in exploration and use of outer space for peaceful purposes." He said it "lays a foundation for possible subsequent Soviet-U.S. projects in this field."

Ford Rips Refusal To Help Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says the refusal of the House to resume U.S. arms sales to Turkey "can only do the most serious and irreparable damage to the vital national security interests of the United States."

With a dramatic last-minute shift of votes, the House rejected 223 to 206 even a partial lifting of the arms embargo it imposed on Turkey last Feb. 5 after the Turks invaded and occupied Cyprus.

On another arms deal, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee votes today on whether to reject a $350-million arms sale to Jordan. The House International Relations Committee recommended Thursday that the anti-aircraft missile and gun sale to Jordan be turned down.

In a stern message after the House vote on the Turkish arms sales, Ford said it would damage not only "normally excellent relations" with Turkey but also Turkey's North Atlantic alliance role and U.S. efforts to encourage negotiations between Greece and Turkey for a Cyprus peace.

Opponents contended that approval of renewed U.S. arms sale would be submission to blackmail because of Turkey's threat to close U.S. bases if it did not get the arms.

House leaders including Rep. William S. Broomfield of Michigan, ranking Republican on the House International Relations Committee, said they believe the House vote will bring serious consequences, such as the loss of the U.S. bases in Turkey.

Ford and other supporters of the arms sales had contended Congress' aid cut-off last year did not work to force Cyprus negotiations and that the U.S. bases on Turkey are needed for surveillance of the Soviet Union.

Congress cut off all U.S. aid to Turkey as of last Feb. 5 because of Turkey's use of American weapons in its invasion and occupation of Cyprus.

The rejected House bill would have cleared for immediate release $185 million worth of weapons Turkey had contracted for as of Feb. 5.

It also would have permitted cash sales to Turkey and authorized Ford to approve additional U.S. credit arms sales strictly for Turkey's North Atlantic alliance obligations.

Four leading opponents of the renewed arms sales said in a joint statement that partial lifting of the ban "would mean a green light to countries buying billions of dollars in American arms to use those arms without restraint — a most danrous precedent."

Small Quebec Community Hit By Twister; 3 Dead

ST. BONAVENTURE, Que. (AP) — "The air was full of debris. Trees were falling everywhere."

Etienne Labonte spoke of the tornado that ripped a five-mile trail of destruction through this small farming community Thursday evening, killing a woman and her twin infant daughters and wrecking the town's main street.

Quebec Provincial Police said in addition to those killed, about 45 residents of this 2,500-population town 50 miles northeast of Montreal were hospitalized.

Late Thursday evening, authorities reported that 14 persons had died in the storm. But later they said the count had been based on erroneous information.

Some 100 buildings, including the local church, rectory, water tower and school, were destroyed or heavily damaged, along with numerous houses and barns. Scores of farm animals were killed, and trees, power lines and telephone wires were strewn across the countryside.

A police spokesman said damage was "too vast to estimate," and the local priest, the Rev. Theophile Cote, said "the whole town will have to be rebuilt."

"The tornado picked up trees around my house and some went in one direction, some went another," said Jean-Paul Bonin, who runs a farm two miles south of the town.

Bonin said his son's home, just 200 yards away, was wrecked, along with outlying farm buildings. The house was empty at the time.

He said his house was just slightly damaged, but that some neighboring houses "were flattened."

Telephone Delorme, who lives about four miles from the town, said he received "only the tail end of the tornado, but my neighbor's cows are nearly all dead."

Two tornadoes hit Quebec province last month, injuring several persons and causing a total of some $2 million in damage.

"Consumers along both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts were the most seriously affected by the higher rates, the report said. And 'New England and the Middle Atlantic regions, which historically have had the highest electric rates, also had the highest rates of increase during the last year'."

The report said fuel prices accounted for 60 per cent of the higher electricity costs. Nonfuel electricity costs increased only 16.8 per cent during the year, with the largest factor in this category the rising interest rates on borrowed money, the report said.

Fuel-switching from high sulfur to low sulfur coal and oil, and coal-to-oil and coal-to-gas conversions of generating plants accounted for only 2.5 per cent of the higher costs, the report said. In addition, the report estimated that about 8 per cent of utilities' capital expenditures were attributable to environmental factors.

The report was prepared for EPA by the independent research firm of Temple, Barker and Sloane, Inc.

Voting Rights Act Extension Seen Certain

WASHINGTON (AP) — A measure extending the Voting Rights Act for seven years and expanding its coverage appears headed for House approval and President Ford's signature before the present law expires Aug. 6.

The Senate voted 77 to 12 Thursday night to extend the act, which is widely regarded as bringing dramatic increases in black voting and the election of black officials in the South since its enactment in 1965.

The extension bill also expands legal protection to the voting rights of language-minority groups, including Alaskan natives, Americans of Spanish heritage, American Indians and Asian-Americans.

The Senate acted after amending a House-passed bill to extend key provisions of the law for seven years instead of 10 years as approved by the House.

However, Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., a chief House sponsor of the bill, say they will recommend House acceptance of the Senate amendments, thus avoiding a parliamentary wrangle between both chambers and speeding the bill to the President's desk.

Ford has indicated he will sign the bill, despite the Senate's rejection earlier this week of his recommendation that the extension apply to all 50 states rather than focus on Southern states.

Areas with a population of 5 per cent or more of the ethnic groups and where voter registration or turnout was less than 50 per cent in the 1972 presidential election would be covered.

Malpractice Bill Sent To Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Insurance Director Harry V. Jump says he is ready to move immediately to implement Ohio's new medical malpractice law, as soon as it is signed by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Jump referred Thursday to a section in the newly approved bill that sets up a Joint Underwriting Association (JUA) to provide last resort malpractice insurance for physicians and hospitals—a growing problem that has threatened Ohioans' health care.

The director said he already has taken preliminary steps to set up the assigned risk pool, provided for in the major bill which won final approval in the Senate and House earlier Thursday.

Passage came as the Senate voted 31-0 and the House 94-1 on a report of a six-member joint conference committee that worked out differences between the two chambers.

Rep. Robert W. Jaskulski, D-11 Cleveland, cast the only negative vote. The Cuyahoga County lawmaker called "special interest" legislation aimed only at the problems "of a few people."

Conferees on the immediately effective emergency bill agreed unanimously Thursday morning after they resolved two major issues—limits on attorney fees in malpractice cases and a scheme that would require malpractice claimants to deduct certain privately gained payments from jury awards or out-of-court settlements.

The impasse was resolved with provisions that leave attorney fees up to the Ohio Supreme Court, with a "recommendation" that they should not be more than one-third of a monetary settlement or award, and with language that says private insurance benefits would not have to be deducted from settlements. The bill does require deductions payments from any other source, however, said Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, chairman of the Senate-House panel.

Under the bill, the JUA's assigned risk pool—with all the state's liability insurers participating—would take those physicians and hospitals who are unable to find malpractice insurance in the private market.

The first Pickaway County Fair was held at 1834. A period of 20 years elapsed and then another fair was held. In 1895 a new fair was organized and conducted for three years.

The modern fair began in 1945 when the old fairgrounds was deeded to the county. Each year the fair has grown until it is recognized as one of the better fairs in the state.

Traditionally a showplace for the farm community, Pickaway County ranks 16th in total income from farming in the state with cash receipts of over $42,381,000 in 1973 according to the latest report of Ohio Farm Income published by the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, Wooster.

OFBF Blasts

Wheat Holdup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A proposal that longshoremen refuse to load wheat on ships bound for the Soviet Union has brought sharp criticism from the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Wallace Hirschfeld, farm bureau federation president, said the action, proposed by the International Longshoremen's Association, "is shortsighted, destructive and would jeopardize vital foreign markets and the jobs of many people in this country."

Hirschfeld said agricultural exports are vital to the nation's balance of payments. He also said grain sales to the Soviet Union would not affect bread prices.

Malpractice Bill Sent To Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Insurance Director Harry V. Jump says he is ready to move immediately to implement Ohio's new medical malpractice law, as soon as it is signed by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Jump referred Thursday to a section in the newly approved bill that sets up a Joint Underwriting Association (JUA) to provide last resort malpractice insurance for physicians and hospitals—a growing problem that has threatened Ohioans' health care.

The director said he already has taken preliminary steps to set up the assigned risk pool, provided for in the major bill which won final approval in the Senate and House earlier Thursday.

Passage came as the Senate voted 31-0 and the House 94-1 on a report of a six-member joint conference committee that worked out differences between the two chambers.

Rep. Robert W. Jaskulski, D-11 Cleveland, cast the only negative vote. The Cuyahoga County lawmaker called "special interest" legislation aimed only at the problems "of a few people."

Conferees on the immediately effective emergency bill agreed unanimously Thursday morning after they resolved two major issues—limits on attorney fees in malpractice cases and a scheme that would require malpractice claimants to deduct certain privately gained payments from jury awards or out-of-court settlements.

The impasse was resolved with provisions that leave attorney fees up to the Ohio Supreme Court, with a "recommendation" that they should not be more than one-third of a monetary settlement or award, and with language that says private insurance benefits would not have to be deducted from settlements. The bill does require deductions payments from any other source, however, said Rep. William E. Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, chairman of the Senate-House panel.

Under the bill, the JUA's assigned risk pool—with all the state's liability insurers participating—would take those physicians and hospitals who are unable to find malpractice insurance in the private market.

Rides and concessions are furnished by Gooding Amusement Co.

The first Pickaway County Fair was held at 1834. A period of 20 years elapsed and then another fair was held. In 1895 a new fair was organized and conducted for three years.

The modern fair began in 1945 when the old fairgrounds was deeded to the county. Each year the fair has grown until it is recognized as one of the better fairs in the state.

Traditionally a showplace for the farm community, Pickaway County ranks 16th in total income from farming in the state with cash receipts of over $2,381,000 in 1973 according to the latest report of Ohio Farm Income published by the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, Wooster.

OFBF Blasts

Wheat Holdup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A proposal that longshoremen refuse to load wheat on ships bound for the Soviet Union has brought sharp criticism from the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Wallace Hirschfeld, farm bureau federation president, said the action, proposed by the International Longshoremen's Association, "is shortsighted, destructive and would jeopardize vital foreign markets and the jobs of many people in this country."

Hirschfeld said agricultural exports are vital to the nation's balance of payments. He also said grain sales to the Soviet Union would not affect bread prices.

Can Lid Shortage Blasted By Nader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader says a little attention from President Ford would encourage manufacturers to turn out canning jar lids to ease the shortage plaguing many of the nation's estimated 20 million home canners.

All that is needed to increase manufacturers' interest in expanding jar lid production is to "just have President Ford go on television and say this is a crisis, we can't let this food rot," according to Nader.

He said another effective strategy would be to permit more imports of jar lids from Japan, which he said has expressed an interest in the business.

A Page Of Opinion

Plodders Of The Potomac

The plodders of the Potomac, better known as the U.S. Congress, are still fiddling while the populace gets burned.

After seven months of lackluster debate, no coherent national energy policy has yet emerged. This despite mounting prices on all fronts.

The energy shortage, most particularly in oil, has been with us since 1973, but little has been done either on Capitol Hill or the White House toward a long-range plan for wise energy use and development of more resources.

On the other hand, President

Ford seems determined to make fuel so costly that few will be able to afford it, while Congress is equally determined to push through an allocation plan which would mean lower prices but less fuel.

The President is to be applauded for at least taking action. However, the little fellow is being badly stung by continued increases. So far, the main beneficiaries seem to be the oil firms, who cannot be held blameless for some price abuses, and the bicycle brigade, who use leg power anyway.

Meanwhile, Congress still seems to think it can legislate more miles per gallon in autos with little consideration of the engineering problems involved, among other things.

We can only shudder and hope such a measure will work out better than the transportation department's mess of bumper and emissions controls, both of which are costing the average man a great deal with little benefit.

Talk of a compromise is in the air over the President's plan and Congress' wishes. This will undoubtedly bring about a measure both sides can live with.

The question is: Can the little man live with it?

slice from those who earn more dollars, even though it requires more of those dollars just to stand still.

Proposals are under consideration to correct this malfunction of the tax system, including an inflation index to increase allowable deductions for exemptions and living expenses. The current situation — higher taxes because of a cheapened dollar — adds insult to injury.

Among the Brays, I think your wife should be fitted for a halo. Last February, when that gallant battler went to the rest home, I'll bet she had sleepless nights. It wasn't her father. Her heart was set on moving up to Gray's Harbor. She must have a 90-pound heart.

I had a mother-in-law live with me for 20 years. She was short, fat, loved to drink gin, and was ignorant. In the middle of World War II, she said, "Now don't call me dumb, but, the Japs aren't on our side, are they?"

My old man was with us the last four years. He was a dictator. He was always right. He was learned. He was daffy. Once, when I tried to tell him that a French coastal town, Griz Nex, was not pronounced grizzness, but rather "gree-nay," he roared, "It isn't my fault that the damn French can't speak English."

We taught the girls to respect him all the way. When he was eating, Kathi watched and burst into tears. We asked her what was the matter. She pointed to grandpa. "He has his upper teeth in upside down." The kid was right. My old man never forgave her.

Tell your Dad I send congratulations. I hope he keeps swinging from the heels. I kept mine arguing and debating until the last. If I won one — A RARE THING — he disowned me again, I wish he was here city's churches, but a rebuilding program has yielded a larger facility and a larger congregation for Pastor Howard Rickey.

"When I looked at the tragedy of our city, God seemed to say to me, 'There are many tragedies, and there may be many more, but there will be more miracles than tragedies,'" the pastor said.

"The day the tornado hit there were 145 children in the basement," recalled the pastor. "They were miraculously saved as the entire structure above them was destroyed."

Thanks to $10,000 in contributions from around the country, $160,000 raised by members and friends, a Small Business Administration loan and a bank mortgage, another "miracle" is taking shape in the form of a $1.1 million church and school now nearing completion.

"During the building time, the church attendance increased by 100 while we worshipped in three separate gymnasiums," Pastor Rickey noted.

Following the tornado, an Associated Press picture of Pastor Rickey walking amid the rubble of his church was distributed across the country.

A short time later, a man in Colorado sent a check for $1,000.

"He said he was awakened in the night and God gave him a dream of the destruction in the church," the pastor said.

The congregation has gained 40 adult members since the tornado, Pastor Rickey said.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester I. Coleman, M.D.

My daughter smokes 2½ packs of cigarettes a day. She and her husband have decided to start a family. I beg her not to smoke because it will affect the baby. She insists this makes no sense.

Mrs. D. J., Ga.

Dear Mrs. J.:

Your daughter may resent the pressure you put on her. Nagging frequently provokes an opposite response, even when there is validity to the things you say.

Actually, you are right. The ingredients in tobacco, and tars and the nicotine, are drugs. Today it is acknowledged that fewer and fewer drugs of all kinds should be used during pregnancy, to give greater possibility to the birth of a normal, healthy child.

A recent study in England indicates that smoking during the first or second trimesters of pregnancy can increase infant mortality. Damage to the fetus markedly increases in women who are heavy smokers.

With such statistics, potential mothers must not abandon their responsibilities to their unborn child by persisting in a habit that should be abandoned, not only for the baby's sake, but for their own.

Is homosexuality inherited?

Mrs. I. G. W., Minn.

Dear Mrs. W.:

There is no evidence that homosexuality is transmitted through the chromosomes and genes.

Many complex factors are at work, in the home and in the environment, that may be responsible for homosexual patterns that may begin very early in life.

A new book, "Beyond Sexual Freedom," by Dr. Charles W. Socarides, may clarify some of the aspects of the problem for you.

In your letter you intimate that such a problem exists in your home. Seek the advice of your physician and a psychiatrist or psychologist. There is a tendency to pretend that a problem does not exist and, by doing so, much valuable time is wasted if any form of treatment is needed.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The doubling of the consumer inflation rate to 9.6 percent in June reportedly surprised the administration. It didn't surprise food shoppers. They've been reading prices, not forecasts.

Consumers remain steadfast in their belief that you can't talk your economic troubles away. The recession has been declared over by the statistics readers in Washington. Consumers doubt that it is.

Reality exists on the consumer firing line. Faced with rising prices, consumers discard their dreams and become believers in sensible household fiscal policies. They cut where they can.

The extraordinarily high savings rate of 10.6 percent of take-home pay suggests the insecure mood of consumers. Consumer polls, though they vary in specifics, show clearly that ordinary Americans aren't convinced.

They aren't convinced that the recession is over — not with close to 9 percent of the job force unemployed, with probably another 1 percent that might be classified as having given up.

A first National City Bank poll, conducted nationwide, showed consumers "are growing increasingly skeptical over the so-called economic recovery process," despite forecasts.

A sizable majority, the report found, "feel it will take anywhere from one to more than three years for the economy to start improving," a feeling that "runs counter to numerous reports from private economists and government estimates."

The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, a Paris-based association of the leading trading nations, doesn't see much cooling of inflation for the Western world during the next year.

More ominous, it fears that unemployment in the major industrial nations could be worse by then. For the United States it forecasts: "Unemployment is likely to remain high, perhaps around 9 percent in the middle of 1976."

The OECD does foresee the United States coming out of the economic slump. "A relatively sharp rise in real GNP is forecast in the third and fourth quarters," it says. Then it gives some reasons why.

Among the reasons, as listed by the OECD: lower rates of inflation, a marked easing of monetary conditions, the likelihood of an upturn by private consumption and housebuilding in the third and fourth quarters.

It is now the third quarter. Inflation still is a serious concern. Monetary policy has stiffened rather than eased. Consumers are saving rather than spending. Housebuilding rates fell in June.

Forecasts, such as that by the OECD, which are at variance with the facts as the consumer knows them are suspect. And so, it seems, are government and business forecasts that are polished up to encourage the consumer.

Sponge Rubber Plant Force Hit By Layoffs After Blast

SHELTON, Conn. (AP) — Henry Baer is one of 500 some people who depended on Sponge Rubber Products Co. for a living.

Like the rest Baer, the plant's general manager, is waiting for word about the future of the plant, ripped by explosions March 1 in the biggest arson case in FBI's history.

The financially-plagued company lost its largest Connecticut plant, in Shelton, when the dynamite explosions and fire destroyed it, resulting in $10 million damage.

Ten men were charged in federal indictments with arson and conspiracy, including Charles D. Moeller of Crider'sville, Ohio. He is president of Sponge Rubber's parent firm, Grand Sheet Metal Products Co. of Melrose Park, Ill.

About 300 workers lost their jobs after the disaster.

An estimated 540 others from the remaining plants were issued their final pay checks Monday when they were laid off indefinitely. Some did not find out about the shutdown until they showed up for work. Others had read about plans to close in the newspapers over the weekend.

The layoffs didn't spell financial disaster for this section of Naugatuck Valley, already hit by high unemployment because of failing industry. But they did boost the percentage of jobless to 16.1, according to the state Labor Department. That's the highest for any market in the state.

The department says there is a work force of 40,000 in Ansonia, Derby, Oxford, Seymour and Shelton.

As of Wednesday, 385 of Sponge Rubber's recent unemployed had applied for jobless benefits at the Ansonia office. Perhaps 35 to 40 others had filed in the New Haven and Bridgeport offices, the Labor Department said.

It has developed into a wait and see situation.

Plodders Of The Potomac

The plodders of the Potomac, better known as the U.S. Congress, are still fiddling while the populace gets burned.

After seven months of lackluster debate, no coherent national energy policy has yet emerged. This despite mounting prices on all fronts.

The energy shortage, most particularly in oil, has been with us since 1973, but little has been done either on Capitol Hill or the White House toward a long-range plan for wise energy use and development of more resources.

On the other hand, President

Ford seems determined to make fuel so costly that few will be able to afford it, while Congress is equally determined to push through an allocation plan which would mean lower prices but less fuel.

The President is to be applauded for at least taking action. However, the little fellow is being badly stung by continued increases. So far, the main beneficiaries seem to be the oil firms, who cannot be held blameless for some price abuses, and the bicycle brigade, who use leg power anyway.

Meanwhile, Congress still seems to think it can legislate

more miles per gallon in autos with little consideration of the engineering problems involved, among other things.

We can only shudder and hope such a measure will work out better than the transportation department's mess of bumper and emissions controls, both of which are costing the average man a great deal with little benefit.

Talk of a compromise is in the air over the President's plan and Congress' wishes. This will undoubtedly bring about a measure both sides can live with.

The question is: Can the little man live with it?

Reverse Escalator

Someone in Washington with more time than work on his hands has been sitting around figuring how it is possible to lose even while winning salary increases, thanks to inflation and the federal income tax system. The wage earner who has been on such a budgeting treadmill is well aware of what is happening.

Thanks to inflation it was necessary for a family of four to earn $14,466 in 1974, in order to maintain a moderate standard of living by government definition. That was an increase of $1,840, or 14.6 per cent, over the previous year's income.

That is when the second blow of the double whammy came in. The progressive feature of income tax rates increased the tax take last year by $773 or 28.3 per cent over the tax bill for the previous year. The tax system is designed to take a bigger slice from those who earn more dollars, even though it requires more of those dollars just to stand still.

Proposals are under consideration to correct this malfunction of the tax system, including an inflation index to increase allowable deductions for exemptions and living expenses. The current situation — higher taxes because of a cheapened dollar — adds insult to injury.

"He is not completely happy. Who is? As you wrote, 'the lucky and the insane.' I'm lucky for I have a wonderful wife who insisted that we buy a house and take care of him. God bless her! Also my son, and my wife's relatives who are kinder to him than his own kin. Kinda hard to take, isn't it?"

"Well, you hit the nail on the head very firmly. To keep him alive and alert, Joey, John and I argue and debate with him to keep his mind sharp. Since he came to live with us he has become younger. I can't say how much — but younger."

"This letter may be out of order, but as I said I found the clipping among his papers in a drawer. He evidently had a reason for keeping it. Very sincerely, Bob Bray."

Hard-to-Find Solution

You said it all, Mr. Bray. You spoke for a whole generation of middle-aged people who do not know what to do with aged parents. Some, like your brothers, feel that a rest home is the solution. On some, it works.

Among the Brays, I think your wife should be fitted for a halo. Last February, when that gallant battler went to the rest home, I'll bet she had sleepless nights. It wasn't her father. Her heart was set on moving up to Gray's Harbor. She must have a 90-pound heart.

I had a mother-in-law live with me for 20 years. She was short, fat, loved to drink gin, and was ignorant. In the middle of World War II, she said, "Now don't call me dumb, but, the Japs aren't on our side, are they?"

My old man was with us the last four years. He was a dictator. He was always right. He was learned. He was daffy. Once, when I tried to tell him that a French coastal town, Griz Nex, was not pronounced grizzness, but rather "gree-nay," he roared, "It isn't my fault that the damn French can't speak English."

We taught the girls to respect him all the way. When he was eating, Kathi watched and burst into tears. We asked her what was the matter. She pointed to grandpa. "He has his upper teeth in upside down." The kid was right. My old man never forgave her.

Tell your Dad I send congratulations. I hope he keeps swinging from the heels. I kept mine arguing and debating until the last. If I won one — A RARE THING — he disowned me again, I wish he was here ...

Tornado-Destroyed Church Rebuilt; Bigger And Better

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — A silver lining has emerged from the dark cloud that once loomed over the First Church of the Nazarene here.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The doubling of the consumer inflation rate to 9.6 per cent in June reportedly surprised the administration. It didn't surprise food shoppers. They've been reading prices, not forecasts.

Consumers remain steadfast in their belief that you can't talk your economic troubles away. The recession has been declared over by the statistics readers in Washington. Consumers doubt that it is.

Reality exists on the consumer firing line. Faced with rising prices, consumers discard their dreams and become believers in sensible household fiscal policies. They cut where they can.

The extraordinarily high savings rate of 10.6 per cent of take-home pay suggests the insecure mood of consumers. Consumer polls, though they vary in specifics, show clearly that ordinary Americans aren't convinced.

They aren't convinced that the recession is over — not with close to 9 per cent of the job force unemployed, with probably another 1 per cent that might be classified as having given up.

A first National City Bank poll, conducted nationwide, showed consumers "are growing increasingly skeptical over the so-called economic recovery process," despite forecasts.

A sizable majority, the report found, "feel it will take anywhere from one to more than three years for the economy to start improving," a feeling that "runs counter to numerous reports from private economists and government estimates."

The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, a Paris-based association of the leading trading nations, doesn't see much cooling of inflation for the Western world during the next year.

More ominous, it fears that unemployment in the major industrial nations could be worse by then. For the United States it forecast: "Unemployment is likely to remain high, perhaps around 9 per cent in the middle of 1976."

The OECD does foresee the United States coming out of the economic slump. "A relatively sharp rise in real GNP is forecast in the third and fourth quarters," it says. Then it gives some reasons why.

Among the reasons, as listed by the OECD: lower rates of inflation, a marked easing of monetary conditions, the likelihood of an upturn by private consumption and housebuilding in the third and fourth quarters.

It is now the third quarter. Inflation still is a serious concern. Monetary policy has stiffened rather than eased. Consumers are saving rather than spending. Housebuilding rates fell in June.

Forecasts, such as that by the OECD, which are at variance with the facts as the consumer knows them are suspect. And so, it seems, are government and business forecasts that are polished up to encourage the consumer.

Sponge Rubber Plant Force Hit By Layoffs After Blast

SHELTON, Conn. (AP) — Henry Baer is one of 500 some people who depended on Sponge Rubber Products Co. for a living.

Like the rest Baer, the plant's general manager, is waiting for word about the future of the plant, ripped by explosions March 1 in the biggest arson case in FBI's history.

The financially-plagued company lost its largest Connecticut plant, in Shelton, when the dynamite explosions and fire destroyed it, resulting in $10 million damage.

Ten men were charged in federal indictments with arson and conspiracy, including Charles D. Moeller of Cridersville, Ohio. He is president of Sponge Rubber's parent firm, Grand Sheet Metal Products Co. of Melrose Park, Ill.

About 300 workers lost their jobs after the disaster.

An estimated 540 others from the remaining plants were issued their final pay checks Monday when they were laid off indefinitely. Some did not find out about the shutdown until they showed up for work. Others had read about plans to close in the newspapers over the weekend.

The layoffs didn't spell financial disaster for this section of Naugatuck Valley, already hit by high unemployment because of failing industry. But they did boost the percentage of jobless to 16.1, according to the state Labor Department. That's the highest for any market in the state.

The department says there is a work force of 40,000 in Ansonia, Derby, Oxford, Seymour and Shelton.

As of Wednesday, 385 of Sponge Rubber's recent unemployed had applied for jobless benefits at the Ansonia office. Perhaps 35 to 40 others had filed in the New Haven and Bridgeport offices, the Labor Department said.

It has developed into a wait and see situation.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

If a private business in this country were run like the Federal Government, it would be bankrupt before the paint on its "Open for Business" sign were dry. Who would buy stock in a company that has operated in the red for years?

Yet, that is precisely the financial state of affairs with our national government - but you would never know it to watch Congress in action. It continues to spend what is not there to spend, and the size of the resulting deficit rises steadily and without interruption.

The big spenders in Congress recently demonstrated once again that they are not really concerned with the national debt, our obligations to repay it - with interest - or the inflationary impact of continued deficit spending.

They recently raised the national debt ceiling to a record high of $577 billion. I opposed that legislation. The only consolation from the action is that the debt ceiling approved is not as large as that presented to the House earlier.

Still, the new debt ceiling will not get our federal government through the fiscal year. So, sometime before November 15 - when the current ceiling expires - Congress will again be asked to raise the limit, enabling the government to indulge itself in more deficit spending. In the next fiscal year alone, an additional $75 to $80 billion is expected to be added to the federal deficit.

The national debt ceiling reflects just how much future generations of Americans will be indebted to the holders of government notes. In this year alone, it will cost every man, woman and child in this country more than $250 just to make the interest payments.

Spending money is easy enough, but getting the taxes needed to pay the bill is next to impossible.

Too many members of Congress find it convenient to vote for all appropriations bills and against all tax bills. To them, where spending is concerned, the sky is the limit, but they don't want to offend the folks back home by voting for the taxes necessary to pay for expenditures.

But the "folks back home" don't benefit from runaway deficit spending, which feeds inflation, increases the national debt, and eats away at the value of the dollar.

It is time we made federal spending a responsible business-like operation. It is time we made serious efforts to balance the federal budget and retire the national debt.

I am co-sponsoring in this Congress an Amendment to the Constitution which would mandate a balanced budget for each fiscal year. It would prevent the Federal Government from spending more money than it takes in except in times of national emergency such as wars.

This anti-deficit spending restriction could be lifted by a three-fourths vote of the House and Senate, but only for the two-year duration of the Congress which lifts the restriction.

The legislation, House Joint Resolution 471, also calls for repayment of the national debt over a period of 100 years, at the rate of 1 per cent each year.

Taking the Constitutional Amendment route is unquestionably a complex legislative process. However, we will never get a balanced budget through legislation in simple bill form. A law passed by one Congress can easily be changed by the next one.

Because we did not have language in the Constitution requiring a balanced budget, it was possible for Congressional spenders to simply lift the ceiling on spending. As a result, we can expect federal borrowing at the rate of more than $1 billion a week, thus squeezing private borrowers out of the money market, and an interest on our national debt totaling 10 per cent of total spending for the next fiscal year.

By any financial yardstick, that is no way to run a business - and it's no way for Congress and the Federal Government to run the people's business.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Sixth District Of Ohio

If a private business in this country were run like the Federal Government, it would be bankrupt before the paint on its "Open for Business" sign were dry. Who would buy stock in a company that has operated in the red for years?

Yet, that is precisely the financial state of affairs with our national government - but you would never know it to watch Congress in action. It continues to spend what is not there to spend, and the size of the resulting deficit rises steadily and without interruption.

The big spenders in Congress recently demonstrated once again that they are not really concerned with the national debt, our obligations to repay it - with interest - or the inflationary impact of continued deficit spending.

They recently raised the national debt ceiling to a record high of $577 billion. I opposed that legislation. The only consolation from the action is that the debt ceiling approved is not as large as that presented to the House earlier.

Still, the new debt ceiling will not get our federal government through the fiscal year. So, sometime before November 15 - when the current ceiling expires - Congress will again be asked to raise the limit, enabling the government to indulge itself in more deficit spending. In the next fiscal year alone, an additional $75 to 80 billion is expected to be added to the federal deficit.

The national debt ceiling reflects just how much future generations of Americans will be indebted to the holders of government notes. In this year alone, it will cost every man, woman and child in this country more than $250 just to make the interest payments.

Spending money is easy enough, but getting the taxes needed to pay the bill is next to impossible.

Too many members of Congress find it convenient to vote for all appropriations bills and against all tax bills. To them, where spending is concerned, the sky is the limit, but they don't want to offend the folks back home by voting for the taxes necessary to pay for expenditures.

But the "folks back home" don't benefit from runaway deficit spending, which feeds inflation, increases the national debt, and eats away at the value of the dollar.

It is time we made federal spending a responsible business-like operation. It is time we made serious efforts to balance the federal budget and retire the national debt.

I am co-sponsoring in this Congress an Amendment to the Constitution which would mandate a balanced budget for each fiscal year. It would prevent the Federal Government from spending more money than it takes in except in times of national emergency such as wars.

This anti-deficit spending restriction could be lifted by a three-fourths vote of the House and Senate, but only for the two-year duration of the Congress which lifts the restriction.

AFTERNOON TEA

Apricot loaf, tea

APRICOT LOAF

One of the best quick breads we've come upon

2 cups flour, stir to aerate before measuring
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup finely chopped dried apricots
1 cup warm water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened

1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 cup orange juice
1/4 cup brandy
3/4 cup coarsely chopped walnuts

Stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Soak the chopped apricots in the warm water for about 15 minutes; drain apricots and discard liquid. Beat together the butter, sugar and egg; add orange rind, orange juice and brandy and beat to blend. Add flour mixture and stir only until it is moistened. Fold in drained chopped apricots and walnuts. Turn into a greased 9 by 5 by 3 inch loaf pan. Bake in the pre-heated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 60 to 65 minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool for 10 minutes; loosen edges and turn out; turn right side up; cool completely before cutting. To soften crust and make slicing easiest, wrap in plastic wrap and let stand 4 to 6 hours before slicing. Serve with or without butter.

SATURDAY REFRESHER

Cheese and nut ball, assorted crackers and pineapple fuff.

Pineapple Fuff

Wonderfully refreshing because only the pineapple adds sweetening.

8-ounce can unsweetened crushed pineapple

3/4 cup white rum
12 ice cubes

Into an electric blender, turn all the ingredients. (Each ice cube should be the equivalent of about 3 tablespoons water.) Blend briefly — just until the ice cubes are liquefied. Serve at once in cocktail or small footed glasses or punch cups. Makes 4 to 6 servings. (Using ice cubes instead of crushed ice in the electric blender is okay when, as in this recipe, there is an adequate amount of liquid called for.)

State Cash Flow Precarious

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' November bond issues would do nothing to help improve Ohio's precarious cash flow situation for about a year, concedes Howard L. Collier, state budget and management director.

Collier, appearing before the Senate Finance Committee in connection with his own appointment by Rhodes, said the earliest help could not come before late 1976.

"We're talking about the second year of the 1975-1976 biennium," Collier told the committee.

The second year of the two-year bookkeeping period starts July 1, 1976. Finance Chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, said he was disturbed that members of the Rhodes cabinet, who are helping campaign for the bond issues' adoption on the November ballot, "are going around the state saying the four issues will solve all our economic problems."

"That's a terrible fallacy," he said.

He asked Collier, "Isn't it true, if all the proposals were approved tomorrow, it would be at least a year before the state could derive any money from the bond issues?"

"Yes," replied Collier.

He added that he had become frustrated with some department heads who had pressured the legislature for more money in the budget bill, knowing it would not be possible to grant their requests with existing state revenues.

Rhodes' package includes capital improvement and transportation bond issues totaling about $4.3 billion. Bonds sold under these issues would be paid off with slight increases in the state gasoline and sales taxes, in each case less than one penny.

Mayor Fights Nudist Boom With Paint

PARIS (AP) — The mayor of a Corsican fishing village is fighting a rear guard action against the spread of nudism on French beaches this summer but indications are that the advocates of no swimwear, or "zerokinis," will triumph.

Pierre Morganti, mayor of Ogliaastro, attracted nationwide attention with his squad of volunteers who chase after nudists on the village beach to daub them with blue paint. Morganti's action has aroused controversy between conservatives who applaud him and others who accuse him of violating civil liberties.

The government of President Valery Giscard d'Estaing has thus far avoided taking a stand on the issue. Chances are it will come down on the side of permissiveness, in line with a recent decision to abolish film and theater censorship and bar only minors under 18 from hard-core pornography.

Despite occasional outbursts of indignation among right-wing Gaullists and in traditionally conservative areas such as Corsica, municipalities all along France's Mediterranean, Atlantic and Channel coasts are one by one giving up the struggle against public nudism.

In a departure from the straight-laced attitudes of his two predecessors, Giscard d'Estaing has let it be known that he does not approve of gendarmes who hide behind sand dunes to ambush nude bathers and march them off to jail. But since local authorities have much freedom in establishing their own by-laws, total nudism is still banned in the biggest and most prominent beach resorts.

Republicans who controlled both houses of the Ohio General Assembly for years are showing signs of getting accustomed to being in the minority again.

Veteran Rep. Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, introduced a series of amendments to a medical malpractice bill. He listened as the roll was called on his latest proposal, with Republicans still on the losing side.

"Mr. Chairman, after that monumental show of power, that's the

Janitor Marriage Probably Illegal

CEDAR LAKE, Ind. (AP) — The validity of a marriage of an Indiana couple by a janitor minister in Minneapolis is in doubt.

James Craig, 21, and Kathleen Michaels showed up late for an appointment with a judge and were married by the janitor who was an Assembly of God minister working his way through graduate school.

On Wednesday, police here said that Miss Michaels, who had given her age as 18, was 14-years-old and had been reported missing. Minnesota does not allow persons under 16 to marry.

"I'm shocked," said the Rev. Thomas Byrtus, who performed the ceremony.

last of my amendments," he told Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, chairman of the Elections, Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee.

Democrats experienced similar frustrations when the GOP ran both houses of the legislature throughout the 1960s and into the early 1970s. They reclaimed the Senate only this year.

Rep. Gene Damschroder, R-85 Fremont, thinks he has found a way to make his colleagues in the legislature more cost-conscious.

He has introduced a bill calling for a 2 per cent pay cut for each legislator, if the General Assembly spends more money this year than in 1974. Legislators are paid $17,500 a year.

If they spend less money this year, Damschroder's bill proposes a 1 per cent bonus for the lawmakers.

"Lawmakers get so used to the habit of spending the other person's money they forget about balancing the budget and eliminating bad programs," Damschroder said.

The Fremont legislator said he had 12 cosponsors from each party for his bill.

He did not predict passage.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Flat 14 Year Old Needs Development

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 14-year-old girl. My problem is that I am flat and most boys go for built-up chicks. I know you are going to say, "Wear padded bras," but where will that get me?

I eat everything that is good for me. Fresh fruit, and vegetables and milk, but it all goes to my stomach, thighs and butt.

I am always cut down because I'm flat. I have to wear children's clothes because I have a 30AA bust and my hips are 31½. I am 5'1" and weigh 95 pounds.

I see stuff advertised in magazines, but I haven't sent for any because, in the first place, I don't see how creams can put inches on your bust, and in the second, my Mom opens all the mail. She would kill me if she knew I was even thinking about anything like that.

Please be a friend and put your answer in the paper. There must be at least a million girls with my problem.

FLAT
DEAR FLAT: You are a very wise girl to wonder how creams could put inches on you. They can't. Be patient. And I AM going to tell you to wear a padded bra. At least you will look better in clothes.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law runs her house without any schedule or system. She is 31 and so is her husband. Their children are 2 and 4. They eat when they're hungry and go to sleep when they're tired.

I told them nicely that they should get some kind of schedule, but they paid no attention to me. I also sent them a book on basic child care and nutrition, but I haven't seen any signs of their having read it.

She puts off the housekeeping chores that almost every homemaker does routinely. She just plays with the children and dresses them like dolls, forgetting that balanced meals and a set of routine are important to good health.

Please tell me what to do. My nerves get shot every time I go over there and see what is going on.

MOTHER-IN-LAW
DEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW: Be kind to yourself, and don't go over there so often if it upsets you. If your son isn't aware that his wife needs straightening out, let it go. You've done all you can.

DEAR ABBY: About the woman who was "fuming because her teenage daughter got her ears pierced while she was away for the weekend, knowing that she wouldn't have approved:

I am the proud father of two clean-cut-looking BOYS, ages 17 and 18. Each one wears a round gold ring through his left pierced ear.

This doesn't bother me. I view it as a sign of the times, and the possible revival of the days when it was customary for males to wear earrings.

4-HER HELPS HOSPITAL—Debbie Wardell, a member of Darby Cooks of Tomorrow 4-H Club and once a patient at Columbus Children's Hospital, decided she wanted to do something for the pediatric center there and so made this the goal of a recent 4-H project. She held a jewelry party and recently presented a check for $101 received from the party to Norman L. Myers, associate development director at Children's Hospital. She plans to enter her project in 4-H competition at the fair. The gift will be used by Children's Hospital to help provide the finest pediatric health care to children throughout Ohio.

Expect Soviets To Remain Regular Grain Customer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has turned into a regular customer of American grain farmers and may resume shopping later this year if its crops deteriorate further and U.S. harvests are as large as now indicated, according to Agriculture Department experts.

Richard E. Bell, newly sworn in as USDA assistant secretary for international affairs and commodity programs, says a commitment by Russia to boost livestock production will mean steady sales of U.S. corn and other feed grains.

Further, Bell said Wednesday, purchases above those needs are likely to arise when drought bites into Soviet crop prospects as it has this year. A week-long round of grain sales announced by major U.S. firms apparently has ended, at least temporarily, Bell told newsmen.

"I think that the Soviet buying at the present time has probably stopped," Bell said. "I do think there will be further purchases after there is further assessment of the crop."

Grain firms the past week announced sales totaling 9.8 million metric tons of grain, including 4.2 million wheat; 4.5 million corn; and 1.1 million barley. Although no contract prices were disclosed, current prices for future delivery would put the value at about $1.3 billion.

In 1972, when grain prices were much lower, Russia bought more than 19 million tons valued at about $1 billion.

The department has estimated total Soviet grain output this year at 195 million tons, well below Moscow's target of 215.7 million tons. Bell said the Russian crop prospects have continued to deteriorate because of drought and the USDA probably will revise its estimate of the Soviet harvest downward again.

But even without drought and the uncertainties of grain production, the Soviet Union can be counted on to import some wheat and feed grains each year as it strives to boost food production, particularly in livestock products, he said.

No Fruit Exhibit

There will be no exhibition or judging of fruit at the Pickaway County Fair this year.

This class will be resumed when sufficient interest is shown by growers.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Flat 14 Year Old Needs Development

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 14-year-old girl. My problem is that I am flat and most boys go for built-up chicks. I know you are going to say, "Wear padded bras," but where will that get me?

I eat everything that is good for me. Fresh fruit, and vegetables and milk, but it all goes to my stomach, thighs and butt.

I am always cut down because I'm flat. I have to wear children's clothes because I have a 30AA bust and my hips are 31½. I am 5'1" and weigh 95 pounds.

I see stuff advertised in magazines, but I haven't sent for any because, in the first place, I don't see how creams can put inches on your bust, and in the second, my Mom opens all the mail. She would kill me if she knew I was even thinking about anything like that.

Please be a friend and put your answer in the paper. There must be at least a million girls with my problem.

FLAT
DEAR FLAT: You are a very wise girl to wonder how creams could put inches on you. They can't. Be patient. And I AM going to tell you to wear a padded bra. At least you will look better in clothes.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law runs her house without any schedule or system. She is 31 and so is her husband. Their children are 2 and 4.

They eat when they're hungry and go to sleep when they're tired.

I told them nicely that they should get some kind of schedule, but they paid no attention to me. I also sent them a book on basic child care and nutrition, but I haven't seen any signs of their having read it.

She puts off the housekeeping chores that almost every homemaker does routinely. She just plays with the children and dresses them like dolls, forgetting that balanced meals and a set of routine are important to good health.

Please tell me what to do. My nerves get shot every time I go over there and see what is going on.

MOTHER-IN-LAW

DEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW: Be kind to yourself, and don't go over there so often if it upsets you. If your son isn't aware that his wife needs straightening out, let it go. You've done all you can.

DEAR ABBY: About the woman who was "fuming because her teenage daughter got her ears pierced while she was away for the weekend, knowing that she wouldn't have approved:

I am the proud father of two clean-cut-looking BOYS, ages 17 and 18. Each one wears a round gold ring through his left pierced ear.

This doesn't bother me. I view it as a sign of the times, and the possible revival of the days when it was customary for males to wear earrings.

4-HER HELPS HOSPITAL—Debbie Wardell, a member of Darby Cooks of Tomorrow 4-H Club and once a patient at Columbus Children's Hospital, decided she wanted to do something for the pediatric center there and so made this the goal of a recent 4-H project. She held a jewelry party and recently presented a check for $101 received from the party to Norman L. Myers, associate development director at Children's Hospital. She plans to enter her project in 4-H competition at the fair. The gift will be used by Children's Hospital to help provide the finest pediatric health care to children throughout Ohio.

Expect Soviets To Remain Regular Grain Customer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has turned into a regular customer of American grain farmers and may resume shopping later this year if its crops deteriorate further and U.S. harvests are as large as now indicated, according to Agriculture Department experts.

Richard E. Bell, newly sworn in as USDA assistant secretary for international affairs and commodity programs, says a commitment by Russia to boost livestock production will mean steady sales of U.S. corn and other feed grains.

Further, Bell said Wednesday, purchases above those needs are likely to arise when drought bites into Soviet crop prospects as it has this year. A week-long round of grain sales announced by major U.S. firms apparently has ended, at least temporarily, Bell told newsmen.

"I think that the Soviet buying at the present time has probably stopped," Bell said. "I do think there will be further purchases after there is further assessment of the crop."

Grain firms the past week announced sales totaling 9.8 million metric tons of grain, including 4.2 million wheat; 4.5 million corn; and 1.1 million barley. Although no contract prices were disclosed, current prices for future delivery would put the value at about $1.3 billion.

In 1972, when grain prices were much lower, Russia bought more than 19 million tons valued at about $1 billion.

The department has estimated total Soviet grain output this year at 195 million tons, well below Moscow's target of 215.7 million tons. Bell said the Russian crop prospects have continued to deteriorate because of drought and the USDA probably will revise its estimate of the Soviet harvest downward again.

But even without drought and the uncertainties of grain production, the Soviet Union can be counted on to import some wheat and feed grains each year as it strives to boost food production, particularly in livestock products, he said.

Rock Concert Hoax Disclosed

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — An apparent hoax has been played on would-be concert goers who hoped to see three of rock music's top acts next month and were willing to pay $8 for each phoney ticket.

Pennsylvania State Police Wednesday revealed that a concert promotion for which hundreds of tickets have been sold in northwestern Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio was a fraud.

Those artists who were supposed to appear Aug. 16 in Allegheny National Forest at the "Wilderness Folk Festival" included John Denver, Stephen Stills and the Pointer Sisters.

On Books And Activities At The Library

Beat the heat on top of the highest Alp or dive to the cool depths of the ocean or fish a sparkling trout stream. Whatever does it for you is just a book away at the Pickaway County District Public Library.

"CBS: Reflections In a Bloodshot Eye" by Robert Metz is one of the more interesting new non-fiction works. It's a look at the powerful network and the people connected with it who wield that power.

As Fall approaches and recent graduates ponder a higher education, "The Case Against College" by Caroline Bird has many good ideas to weigh in decision making.

Inflation is causing everyone to examine buying habits. "Consumer Survival Kit" adapted by John Dorfman from a TV series is a dollar-saving guide to the market place.

If a new dog has joined the family this Summer, "City Dog" by Richard Wolters can be a big help in training it to live with you.

"Loving and Learning" by McDiarmid, Peterson, and Southerland is a wonderful approach for parents of very young children. The emphasis is on fun.

Whether you're looking for a new hobby or just trying to improve an old one, "Welded Sculpture" by Hale, "Woodworking For Everybody" by Shea, and "The Illustrated Encyclopedia Of Woodworking Tools" by Blackburn are 3 new titles to inspire you.

For some interesting and amusing reading, "Why Didn't I Think Of That First?" by Adrian Hope is the answer. It's a light-hearted look at some of the fascinating patents men have applied for.

Country music fans are well acquainted with the Carter family. "Anchored In Love" by Michael Orgill is the story of the popular entertainers.

"Thurber" by Burton Bernstein is another biography worth reading. It's an in-depth look at the Ohio boy who became an international literary figure.

"Merchant Of Terror" by John Walters is a sharp look at General Sherman's march through the South during the Civil War. If you're looking back in your Bicentennial reading, this book might be included.

New fiction has arrived in every category so readers are sure to find something to please them. If you enjoy Victorian adventure novels, a new series by Richard Falkirk introduces Edmund Blackstone, a super detective, whose mission is to protect the Princess Victoria at all costs. "Blackstone," "Blackstone's Fancy," and "Beau Blackstone" provide lots of exciting reading.

An advertising executive, a bush pilot, and a pro-football player figure in the plots of 3 new suspense novels: "Or Was He Pushed" by Richard Lockridge; "Dead Run" by Jack Foxx; "Dead In The Water" by Brock Yates.

Dell Shannon fans will welcome her 24th Luis Mendoza mystery title "Spring Of Violence." Joan Flemming and Agatha Christie are other popular suspense writers in this week's fiction.

"Triple Zeck" by Rex Stout is a triple helping of Nero Wolfe while "The Allingham Minibus" is a collection of suspense stories from Margery Allingham.

Gothic suspense is popular anytime. New titles include: "Birchwood" by John Banville; "Masquerade In Venice" by Velda Johnson; "A Candle In The Wind" by Mozelle Richardson and "Valley Of The Ravens" by Nancy Buckingham.

Among the larger novels "Ragtime" by E. L. Doctrow offers a story about the U.S. from the turn of the century to the eve of WW I. It follows a commonplace middle class family and explores the social class structure of the era.

"Perilous Journey" by Lael Wertenbaker is the story of an 84-year-old woman as she sorts out the events of her life in an attempt to keep herself intact.

Robert Anderson, the well-known playwright, has authored a novel titled "After." It's the moving story of a man's struggle to cope with life after the death of his wife.

"Green Money" by D. E. Stevenson is a delightful tale of English humor as it follows the complications of a young Englishman who is made trustee of a large estate and guardian of an old-fashioned girl.

A gripping tale of reincarnation is the theme of "The Dark Backward" by Marie Buchanan.

Two couples, totally unlike yet allied by circumstances, people a new novel by Malcolm MacDonald. "The World From Rough Stones" is set in 19th Century England.

For readers who are interested in the Orient, "Shogun" by James Clavell is a 2 volume novel about Japan in the seventeenth century as it moves toward a modern world.

Several new modern novels, some historical fiction and light romances make this week one for decision making. If you can't find something to keep your mind off the weather, it's not the fault of the library!

9 House Backs Strong Rape Protection Bill

STEER AND HORSE—Kami Poling, a member of the Commancheros and Pickaway Beef and Sheep 4-H Clubs, puts her 15-month-old Charolais and a 14-year-old quarterhorse through trials as she prepares for the Pickaway County Fair. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Poling.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The House has given resounding support to a bill aimed at strengthening rape laws by encouraging the prosecution of rapists and protecting the reputations of their victims.

The bill was approved 98-0 and returned to the Senate for concurrence. If the upper chamber agrees with the House version, the plan will be forwarded to Gov. James A. Rhodes for immediate enactment.

Rep. Virginia Aveni, D-17 Cleveland, the House sponsor said forcible rape had increased among violent crimes nationwide by 200 per cent since 1974.

"A woman's life is shaped by the perpetual threat of rape," Mrs. Aveni said. She argued the affect of the current law "is often to put the victim on trial rather than the accused."

Supporters of a tougher rape law, like Atty. Gen. William J. Brown who drafted the bill and Senate sponsor Margene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, say that most victims never report assaults because they fear embarrassing courtroom situations.

The Senate-approved bill would in most cases prohibit details of a victim's sexual past from being introduced as evidence by the defense during a trial. Women would also no longer have to prove that they physically resisted their attacker.

It would establish a mandatory five-year sentence for a second offense with no opportunity for probation or parole. Assaults on youngsters under 13 would bring a minimum 10 years in prison on second conviction.

Victims could hire their own lawyers to represent them in court, in addition to government prosecutors who handle rape cases under current law.

Debate focused on the restrictions against evidence concerning a victim's sexual history.

Mrs. Aveni won support for an amendment removing a section that would have permitted the defense to challenge a victim's credibility based on her sexual conduct.

"We are breaking very new ground in the legal process," contended Rep. Richard H. Finan, R-19 Cincinnati, who voted against the amendment. "To limit a defendant's scope of examination presents very serious constitutional problems."

Benson Woman, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, agreed. "There's a constitutional right to confront (one's accuser)," he said.

A judge could rule in a private hearing to allow evidence about a woman's sexual background if it pertained to the defendant; to the origin of semen, pregnancy or disease,

Garden Tractor Pull Set Sunday

Four classes are scheduled in the Garden Tractor Speed Pull Contest at the Pickaway County Fair.

The distribution of the $800 purse will be determined at the event 12:30 p.m. Sunday, July 27. Events must be completed by 6:30 p.m.

Classes are the 1,000 pound one cylinder stock, the 1,200 pound one cylinder stock, the 1,500 pound open multicylinder, and the 1,700 pound open multicylinder.

Rules for the multicylinders will be standard except rails and the tractor-type multicylinders will run together.

Single cylinder rules are available by contacting John Newton, Route 2, Box 124-A, Circleville.

The $10 entry fee includes two pit passes and the Pickaway County Agriculture pass. Entries will be open until 15 minutes before each class.

Pay back will include eight places in each class.

or if it tended to prove a scheme.

Amendments were offered to increase prison penalties beyond the provisions of the bill, but all were voted down.

"We need a greater deterrent than three square meals a day (in prison)," said Rep. Gene Damschroder, R-85 Fremont who called for the death penalty for a third offense.

The amendment was defeated 71-17.

Other major sections of the bill:

—Would alter the present four-year minimum sentence for first offense to eliminate any opportunity for probation, although parole would still be possible.

—Establish the new crime of sexual penetration — forced insertion of objects into sexual areas of the body — with penalties similar to those for rape.

—Require hospitals to provide 24-hour emergency services to examine and treat alleged rape victims.

—Allow the prosecution of accused rapists who are separated or awaiting resolution of divorce or annulment proceedings from their alleged victims.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q) I am a waitress in a restaurant. Do I have to report all tips I receive to both my employer and the Federal government?

(A) All tip income is subject to tax and must be reported on your return. If you receive $20 or more in tips for a month working for one employer, you must report that income to your employer by the 10th day of the following month. Such amounts of tips are subject to withholding of income tax and social security tax.

To report tips to your employer, use

Barrow Show Set Monday

Exhibitors in the Open Barrow Show at the 1975 Pickaway County Fair are limited to showing two breeds and a total of four hogs.

The show, with Robert Collins as director, is for barrows only. Helping Collins are Leroy Newlon, Jim Hastings, Emerson Brown, and members of the Pickaway County Pork Council.

The show will be held Monday at 4 p.m.

Entries for the show close Saturday. All barrows must be weighed and tagged from 2 to 4 p.m. Monday.

Open Class barrows are not allowed on the grounds before 12 noon Monday and no hog may be left overnight.

Breed classifications are Duroc, Crossbreeds, Hampshire, and Yorkshire. All other breeds will show in the open class.

The champion and reserve champion barrows will be entered in the Carcass Contest. Five places will be awarded.

Form 4070 (available from the nearest IRS office) or submit a report with your name and address, your employer's name and address, your social security number, the month covered, and your signature and the date. For your own records, use Form 4070A to record the written reports to your employer. Both Form 4070 and Form 4070A are contained in IRS Document 5635.

(Q) My tax return has just been audited. I don't agree with some of the changes proposed by the IRS. What can I do to appeal the findings of the audit?

(A) If the examination was made in an IRS office, you could have requested an immediate meeting with a supervisor. If agreement was not reached at that point, or if the examination was not made in an Internal Revenue office, IRS will send you: 1) a copy of the examination report explaining proposed changes in your return; and, 2) a transmittal letter explaining further appeals you can make and giving you 30 days to respond.

If after receiving the examination report you agree with the examiner's findings, you may pay the additional amount owed without waiting for a bill. You must include interest on the additional tax from the due date of the return to the date of payment. If you do not agree with the examiner's findings, you may appeal your case to higher levels of the IRS before you go to court.

Consult Publication 556, "Audit of Returns, Appeal Rights, and Claims for Refund," available at your local IRS office.

(Q) I recently installed a window air conditioner in an apartment I own and rent out. Can I deduct the cost?

(A) The installation of the air conditioner is a capital expenditure since it represents an investment in property that has a useful life of more than one year. You can deduct depreciation calculated over the useful life of the air conditioner.

House Backs Strong Rape Protection Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The House has given resounding support to a bill aimed at strengthening rape laws by encouraging the prosecution of rapists and protecting the reputations of their victims.

The bill was approved 98-0 and returned to the Senate for concurrence. If the upper chamber agrees with the House version, the plan will be forwarded to Gov. James A. Rhodes for immediate enactment.

Rep. Virginia Aveni, D-17 Cleveland, the House sponsor said forcible rape had increased among violent crimes nationwide by 200 per cent since 1974.

"A woman's life is shaped by the perpetual threat of rape," Mrs. Aveni said. She argued the affect of the current law "is often to put the victim on trial rather than the accused."

Supporters of a tougher rape law, like Atty. Gen. William J. Brown who drafted the bill and Senate sponsor Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, say that most victims never report assaults because they fear embarrassing courtroom situations.

The Senate-approved bill would in most cases prohibit details of a victim's sexual past from being introduced as evidence by the defense during a trial. Women would also no longer have to prove that they physically resisted their attacker.

It would establish a mandatory five-year sentence for a second offense with no opportunity for probation or parole. Assaults on youngsters under 13 would bring a minimum 10 years in prison on second conviction.

Victims could hire their own lawyers to represent them in court, in addition to government prosecutors who handle rape cases under current law.

Debate focused on the restrictions against evidence concerning a victim's sexual history.

Mrs. Aveni won support for an amendment removing a section that would have permitted the defense to challenge a victim's credibility based on her sexual conduct.

"We are breaking very new ground in the legal process," contended Rep. Richard H. Finan, R-19 Cincinnati, who voted against the amendment. "To limit a defendant's scope of examination presents very serious constitutional problems."

Benson Woman, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, agreed. "There's a constitutional right to confront (one's accuser)," he said.

A judge could rule in a private hearing to allow evidence about a woman's sexual background if it pertained to the defendant; to the origin of semen, pregnancy or disease, or if it tended to prove a scheme.

Amendments were offered to increase prison penalties beyond the provisions of the bill, but all were voted down.

"We need a greater deterrent than three square meals a day (in prison)," said Rep. Gene Damschroder, R-85 Fremont who called for the death penalty for a third offense.

The amendment was defeated 71-17.

Other major sections of the bill:

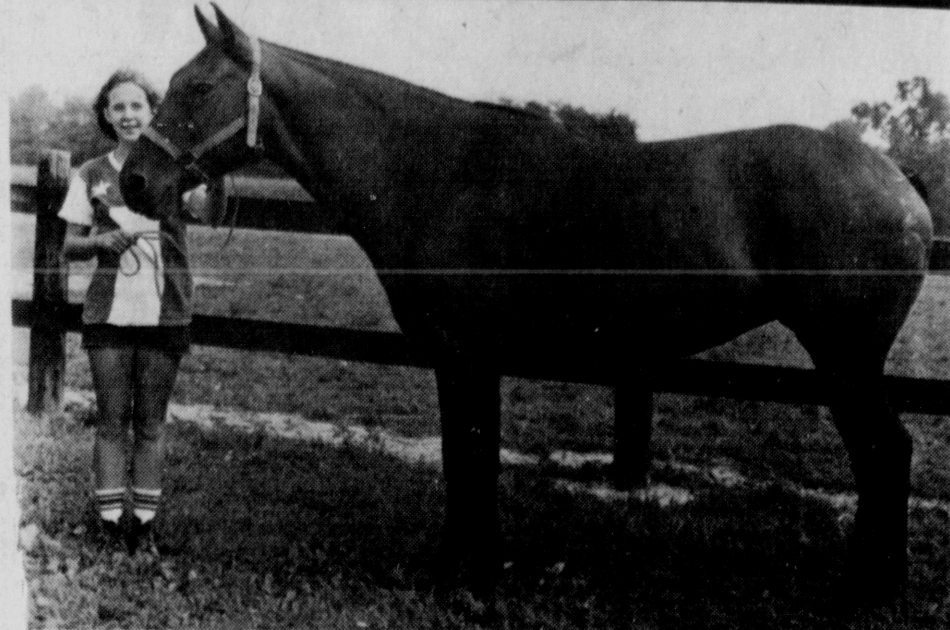

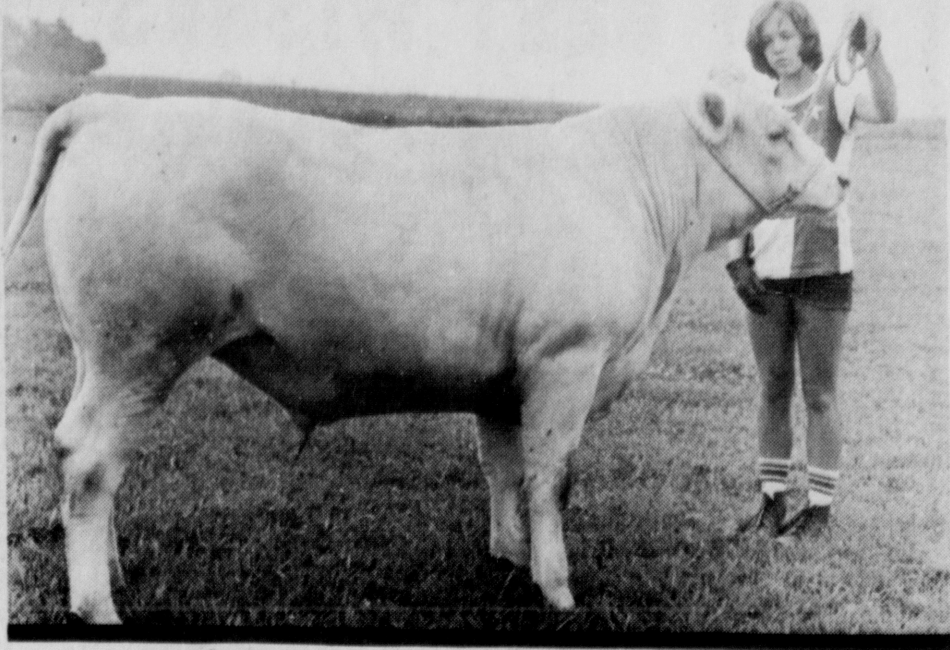

—Would alter the present four-year minimum sentence for first offense to eliminate any opportunity for probation, although parole would still be possible.

—Establish the new crime of sexual penetration — forced insertion of objects into sexual areas of the body — with penalties similar to those for rape.

—Require hospitals to provide 24-hour emergency services to examine and treat alleged rape victims.

—Allow the prosecution of accused rapists who are separated or awaiting resolution of divorce or annulment proceedings from their alleged victims.

(Q) I am a waitress in a restaurant. Do I have to report all tips I receive to both my employer and the Federal government?

(A) All tip income is subject to tax and must be reported on your return. If you receive $20 or more in tips for a month working for one employer, you must report that income to your employer by the 10th day of the following month. Such amounts of tips are subject to withholding of income tax and social security tax.

To report tips to your employer, use

The show will be held Monday at 4 p.m.

Entries for the show close Saturday. All barrows must be weighed and tagged from 2 to 4 p.m. Monday.

Open Class barrows are not allowed on the grounds before 12 noon Monday and no hog may be left overnight.

Breed classifications are Duroc, Crossbreeds, Hampshire, and Yorkshire. All other breeds will show in the open class.

The champion and reserve champion barrows will be entered in the Carcass Contest. Five places will be awarded.

Form 4070 (available from the nearest IRS office) or submit a report with your name and address, your employer's name and address, your social security number, the month covered, and your signature and the date. For your own records, use Form 4070A to record the written reports to your employer. Both Form 4070 and Form 4070A are contained in IRS Document 5635.

(Q) My tax return has just been audited. I don't agree with some of the changes proposed by the IRS. What can I do to appeal the findings of the audit?

(A) If the examination was made in an IRS office, you could have requested an immediate meeting with a supervisor. If agreement was not reached at that point, or if the examination was not made in an Internal Revenue office, IRS will send you: 1) a copy of the examination report explaining proposed changes in your return; and, 2) a transmittal letter explaining further appeals you can make and giving you 30 days to respond.

If after receiving the examination report you agree with the examiner's findings, you may pay the additional amount owed without waiting for a bill. You must include interest on the additional tax from the due date of the return to the date of payment. If you do not agree with the examiner's findings, you may appeal your case to higher levels of the IRS before you go to court.

Consult Publication 556, "Audit of Returns, Appeal Rights, and Claims for Refund," available at your local IRS office.

Time Pressure Faces Solons On Energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Congress planning a month-long vacation in August and oil price controls due to expire Aug. 31, the Ford administration and the legislators are facing time pressure in their efforts to agree on U.S. energy policy.

Republican congressional sources say Ford later this week may offer a compromise plan that would achieve the administration's goal of boosting petroleum prices. At the same time, such a compromise would meet the demands of many congressional Democrats that the price escalation be carried out over a longer period of time than previously proposed by the President.

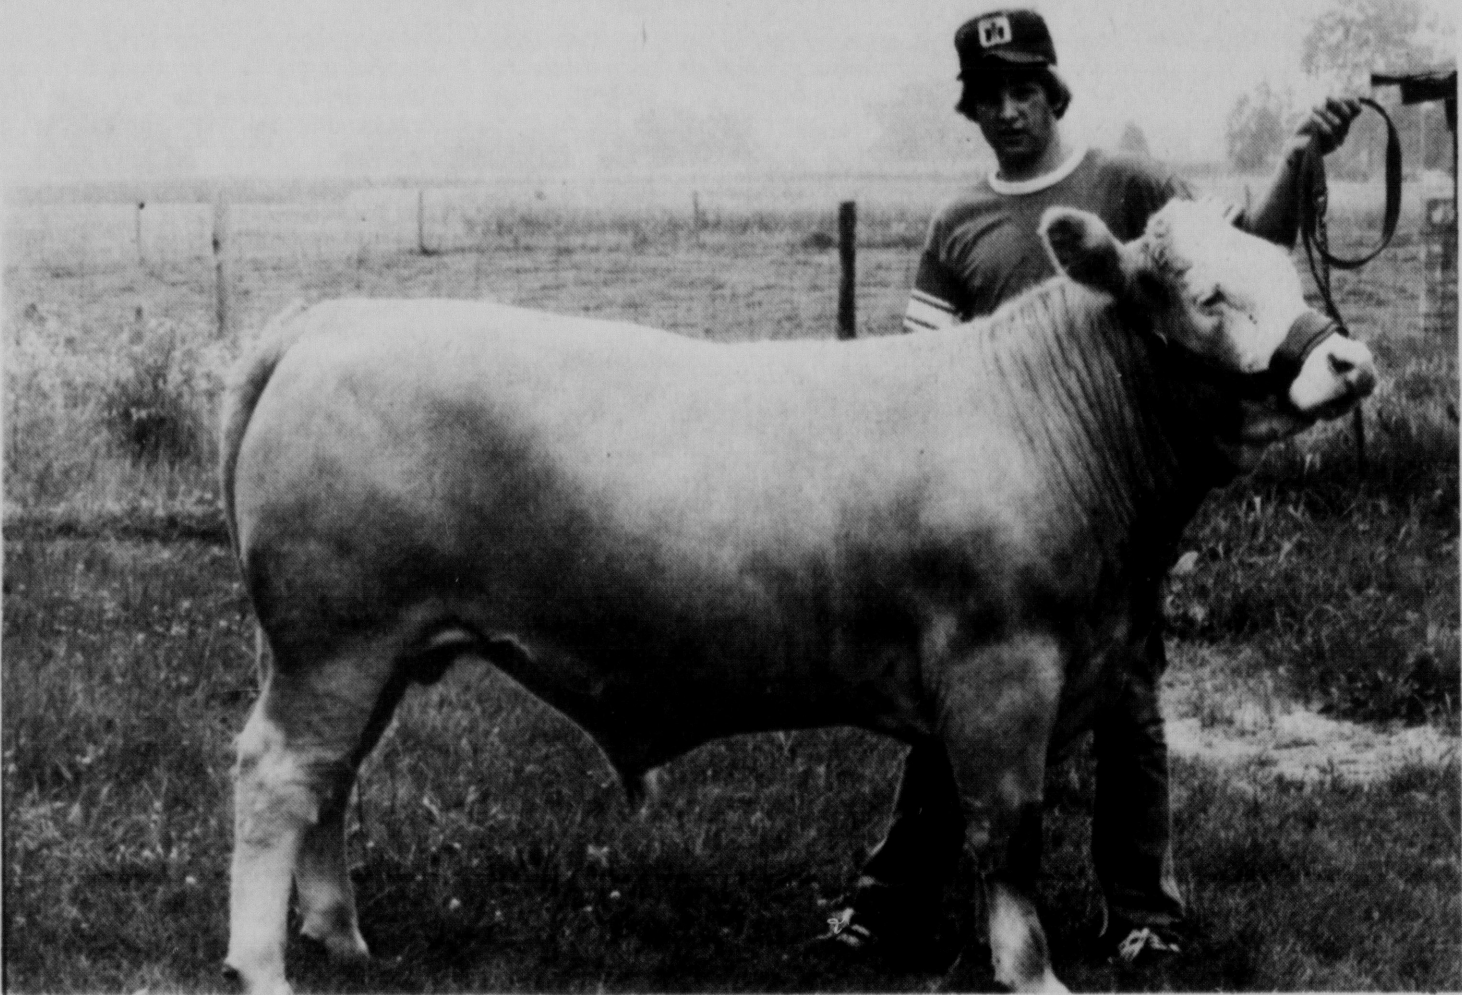

Meanwhile, the House leadership was to decide today whether an attempt should be made to override Ford's veto earlier this week of a bill that would have extended existing price controls and imposed new controls.

The vetoed bill would continue the $5.25 price ceiling on old oil and also would roll back new oil prices to $11.28 a barrel from the current unregulated world market price of around $13.

Old oil is from wells producing no more than their 1972 levels and makes up about 60 per cent of U.S. production. The $5.25 price ceiling expires Aug. 31, and it is widely anticipated that any sudden end to price controls would quickly drive up consumer costs for petroleum products. The House earlier this week killed Ford's plan to allow old oil prices to rise gradually over a 30-month period.

Meanwhile, the House Rules Committee cleared the way for a floor vote on a Senate-passed bill to extend the price-control law until March 1, 1976. Ford has threatened to veto that extension but he has not ruled out the possibility of signing some shorter extension.

After word was out Wednesday night that Ford may offer a compromise, another price rollback proposal was killed by the House. The proposal by the Democrat dominated Commerce Committee would have placed a new lid averaging between $7.50 and $8.50 a barrel for all U.S. oil.

U.S. Fastener Industry Hurting

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — If the U.S. fastener industry is to be saved, the nation must curb imports by holding the line on tariff cuts, acting unilaterally if necessary, an industry spokesman says.

"Import competition is forcing the U.S. fastener manufacturing community to turn off a great number of its machines," said Clyde F. Roberts Jr., president of the locally based Industrial Fasteners Institute, placing much of the blame on Japan.

Failure to check the inflow which last year equaled 18 per cent of the nation's $2.67 billion in shipments will result in "total abandonment of standard fastener production in the United States," Roberts said in testimony prepared for a recent hearing of the U.S. Trade Policy Staff Committee in Washington, D.C.

"It is imperative for our trade negotiators...to negotiate nontariff trade barriers and tariff levels together," he added.

And so long as the result is moderation of the pressure from imports and preservation of the U.S. industry, it "makes little difference" whether the necessary action "is done unilaterally or on a negotiated basis," he added.

The United States imported $482 million worth of mechanical fasteners in 1974, of which about 67 per cent or $325 million came from Japan, he said. He also said 52 per cent of the U.S. market for standard nuts last year was by imports.

"Unless the government takes action to check these trends, imports will displace virtually all domestic production of standard fasteners within a few years," he said.

"For that reason," he said, "our industry is firmly opposed to further reductions in the tariff rates for industrial fastener products, either in the context of the multilateral trade negotiations or the generalized system of preferences authorized by the Trade Act of 1974."

Roberts said the U.S. industry "is generally efficient and well-managed" and should be able to hold its own against imports except that "normal competitive conditions do not exist where imports from Japan are concerned."

Individual U.S. firms not only compete with each other, they also face "combinations of Japanese manufacturers heavily supported and guided by the government of Japan," he continued. "The practices engaged in by Japanese manufacturers, in concert with their government, are basically incompatible with our concepts of fair trade."

"We believe that further trade and tariff relinquishments will further hurt our industry," he said. "We are not

Jobless Rate Rises

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The influx of students entering the labor market for permanent or summer jobs boosted Ohio's unemployment rate by nearly one per cent in June, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services has reported.

But that June increase to 9.1 per cent from May's 8.3 per cent is normal, the bureau said. If the volume of "new entrants" were excluded from the figure, the unemployment rate for June would be unchanged from May.

Ohio's May and June unemployment figures were the same as the national rates, the bureau said.

An estimated 446,000 Ohioans were jobless last month, out of a labor force totaling slightly more than 4.9 million.

Overall employment figures, the bureau said, were up one per cent from May and represented 4.46 million workers. That number, however, was a decline of 2.4 per cent from the number employed in June of last year.

Plumber Plants Peach Orchard

SELF-CONSTRUCTED SPRAYER—The sprayer on the back of the tractor was designed by Kenneth Wilson to make the spraying of his peach orchard easier. The

By ANDREA PORTER
Journalism Intern

If you have ever considered farming a peach orchard, ask Kenneth Wilson about it—he may talk you out of it.

On the other hand, if you visit his orchard, you will notice the proud sense of accomplishment he has for the land he has worked with for six years. Then, you will probably decide to continue with your plans.

"It's a challenge to take a piece of wasteland and turn it into what I call a Garden of Eden," Wilson said.

Wilson, owner of Wilson's Plumbing Supplies, 1173 N. Court St., bought 35 acres of hillside 18 miles from Circleville.

The hill, located southeast of Kingston, is commonly referred to as "Job's Knob" by the people of that area. The side of the hill is now terraced and lined with peach trees, while the top is still an untamed forest.

He purchased the land as a retreat area for him and his daughter Chrystal. They had plans to build a cabin by the pond and spend their time fishing, swimming and exploring the area.

The cabin is yet to be built, though, because they got started in the peach business.

Now, six years later, the Wilson's have a successful peach harvest, but insecticide is stored in what used to be a fuel tank. The sprayers on the right were fashioned from an airplane propeller.

Wilson said the journey to success has been an upward battle.

When the land was purchased, Wilson singlehandedly constructed a large storage building. It took him close to two years to complete the structure because he only used a hand saw and a one-legged, fruit-pickers ladder.

His next project was to make a device so spraying the trees would be easier. Using an airplane propeller, a fuel tank and other assorted equipment parts, Wilson put together the sprayer. He devised a control from automatic car window openers so the amount of solution and its direction could be touch-controlled from the tractor.

Wilson said before this machine was used, it took about four days to spray the orchard. Now it takes no more than four hours.

Another piece of equipment he has installed on the land may replace the sprayer if it continues to be a success. This device traps bugs in a mixture of water and kerosene. They are lured to the solution by a black light, which naturally attracts flying insects.

Wilson has five of these on his land. Each one collects almost two gallons of bugs a night.

Along with cutting down on the manpower needed to spray by hand, the quality of the peaches is improved because of the reduced amount of chemical insecticide used on the peaches.

The idea for the device came from a fruit journal. With the help of an article and one picture, Wilson constructed the bug traps.

Wilson bought the land from a German major who had let the area get uncontrollable. Some of the 4,000 trees were planted by the major, but most of them were added by Wilson.

The major told Wilson that he helped his father plant some of the peach trees on Hartman's Farms that are still being picked from today. Wilson said in Germany, the royal peaches supposedly were grown on the south side of a hill, which may be part of the reason the major bought this particular piece of land.

One of the unusual characteristics of the orchard is what Wilson calls the "roadbed" row of trees. He planted about 300 trees along the road instead of constructing a fence. The other farmers of the area kidded him about it at first, because some were planted on slopes. Wilson said they have all been successful.

When he came to the area, he knew nothing about planting or growing peaches. If he did, he would have never started because of all the work and trouble it involves. Now nothing will stop his motivation to continuously change the orchard.

Some of his future projects include building a shelter house near the pond, building a greenhouse and working with the forested section.

He plans to make trails in the "knob" area. He would then encourage youth groups and naturalists to explore the forest.

From some points on the hilltop, the lights from buildings in Columbus can be seen. Circleville and Kingston are visible from the side of the hill.

The forested area would be an enjoyable and relaxing days outing for any age group, Wilson said.

They haven't thought of an appropriate name for their land, but it will always include the familiar "Job's Knob." Wilson was told that at one time church groups used to meet on the hill, which explains the biblical connotation of the hill's nickname.

No Beef Show

There will be no Beef Cattle Open Show at the fair this year.

However, the show will be resumed next year if sufficient interest is shown by breeders. Comments should be made to Fair Board members.

Budweiser Clydesdales At State Fair

The world-famous Budweiser Champion Clydesdale horses will be appearing at the 1975 Ohio State Fair from Aug. 24 through Sept. 1, according to General Manager John F. Evans.

The Clydesdale eight-horse hitch is seen from coast to coast in state fairs, horse shows, parades and special events, covering about 40,000 miles a year. Each year they appear in the parade of Roses in Pasadena, Calif.

The Clydesdale horse, which originated in Scotland, is a breed of a heavy draft horse, whose smooth and highstepping movement with its white feathered stockings makes the Clydesdale successful in big hitches.

Anheuser-Busch, Inc. established its own Clydesdale breeding operation several years ago in St. Louis.

In exhibition, the Clydesdales pull a 3½ ton wagon in a series of intricate maneuvers. The driver holds eight separate reins to individually control each horse, as they are trained to respond to the slightest command.

The eight-ton Clydesdales horses are another free entertainment feature of the 1975 State Fair, August 21 through Sept. 1.

Plumber Plants Peach Orchard

SELF-CONSTRUCTED SPRAYER—The sprayer on the back of the tractor was designed by Kenneth Wilson to make the spraying of his peach orchard easier. The insecticide is stored in what used to be a fuel tank. The sprayers on the right were fashioned from an airplane propeller.

By ANDREA PORTER
Journalism Intern

If you have ever considered farming a peach orchard, ask Kenneth Wilson about it—he may talk you out of it.

On the other hand, if you visit his orchard, you will notice the proud sense of accomplishment he has for the land he has worked with for six years. Then, you will probably decide to continue with your plans.

"It's a challenge to take a piece of wasteland and turn it into what I call a Garden of Eden," Wilson said.

Wilson, owner of Wilson's Plumbing Supplies, 1173 N. Court St., bought 35 acres of hillside 18 miles from Circleville.

The hill, located southeast of Kingston, is commonly referred to as "Job's Knob" by the people of that area. The side of the hill is now terraced and lined with peach trees, while the top is still an untamed forest.

He purchased the land as a retreat area for him and his daughter Chrystal. They had plans to build a cabin by the pond and spend their time fishing, swimming and exploring the area.

The cabin is yet to be built, though, because they got started in the peach business.

Now, six years later, the Wilsons have a successful peach harvest, but

Wilson said the journey to success has been an upward battle.

When the land was purchased, Wilson singlehandedly constructed a large storage building. It took him close to two years to complete the structure because he only used a hand saw and a one-legged, fruit-pickers ladder.

His next project was to make a device so spraying the trees would be easier. Using an airplane propeller, a fuel tank and other assorted equipment parts, Wilson put together the sprayer. He devised a control from automatic car window openers so the amount of solution and its direction could be touch-controlled from the tractor.

Wilson said before this machine was used, it took about four days to spray the orchard. Now it takes no more than four hours.

Another piece of equipment he has installed on the land may replace the sprayer if it continues to be a success. This device traps bugs in a mixture of water and kerosene. They are lured to the solution by a black light, which naturally attracts flying insects.

Wilson has five of these on his land. Each one collects almost two gallons of bugs a night.

Along with cutting down on the manpower needed to spray by hand, the quality of the peaches is improved because of the reduced amount of chemical insecticide used on the peaches.

The idea for the device came from a fruit journal. With the help of an artificial and one picture, Wilson constructed the bug traps.

Wilson bought the land from a German major who had let the area get uncontrollable. Some of the 4,000 trees were planted by the major, but most of them were added by Wilson.

The major told Wilson that he helped his father plant some of the peach trees on Hartman's Farms that are still being picked from today. Wilson said in Germany, the royal peaches supposedly were grown on the south side of a hill, which may be part of the reason the major bought this particular piece of land.

One of the unusual characteristics of the orchard is what Wilson calls the "roadbed" row of trees. He planted about 300 trees along the road instead of constructing a fence. The other farmers of the area kidded him about it at first, because some were planted on slopes. Wilson said they have all been successful.

When he came to the area, he knew nothing about planting or growing peaches. If he did, he would have never started because of all the work and trouble it involves. Now nothing will stop his motivation to continuously change the orchard.

Some of his future projects include building a shelter house near the pond, building a greenhouse and working with the forested section.

He plans to make trails in the "knob" area. He would then encourage youth groups and naturalists to explore the forest.

From some points on the hilltop, the lights from buildings in Columbus can be seen. Circleville and Kingston are visible from the side of the hill.

The forested area would be an enjoyable and relaxing days outing for any age group, Wilson said.

They haven't thought of an appropriate name for their land, but it will always include the familiar "Job's Knob." Wilson was told that at one time church groups used to meet on the hill, which explains the biblical connotation of the hill's nickname.

No Beef Show

There will be no Beef Cattle Open Show at the fair this year.

However, the show will be resumed next year if sufficient interest is shown by breeders. Comments should be made to Fair Board members.

Budweiser Clydesdales

At State Fair

The world-famous Budweiser Champion Clydesdale horses will be appearing at the 1975 Ohio State Fair from Aug. 24 through Sept. 1, according to General Manager John F. Evans.

The Clydesdale eight-horse hitch is seen from coast to coast in state fairs, horse shows, parades and special events, covering about 40,000 miles a year. Each year they appear in the parade of Roses in Pasadena, Calif.

The Clydesdale horse, which originated in Scotland, is a breed of a heavy draft horse, whose smooth and highstepping movement with its white feathered stockings makes the Clydesdale successful in big hitches.

Anheuser-Busch, Inc. established its own Clydesdale breeding operation several years ago in St. Louis.

In exhibition, the Clydesdales pull a 3½ ton wagon in a series of intricate maneuvers. The driver holds eight separate reins to individually control each horse, as they are trained to respond to the slightest command.

The eight-ton Clydesdales horses are another free entertainment feature of the 1975 State Fair, August 21 through Sept. 1.

Tribalism Pushes Angola To War

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — One of black Africa's most explosive problems — tribalism — has helped push Angola to the brink of civil war.

Fighting between rival African factions in the Portuguese territory, due to be granted independence Nov. 11, has left an estimated 5,000 dead over the past 18 months.

The tribal character of the conflict has been masked over by Marxist rhetoric, the bitter personal rivalry of faction leaders and the spectacle of Soviet and Chinese support in arms and funds to two of the three rival movements.

But the fratricide in Angola, stripped of external ideologies and personalities, reflects a tribal upheaval, such as led to the Biafran civil war a decade ago.

The three rival Angolan groups, all seeking to control the nation rich in oil, diamonds and coffee are the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA), the National Front for the Liberation of Angola (FNLA) and the Union for the Total Independence of Angola (UNITA).

Most of the fighting has been between MPLA and FNLA troops in the black suburbs of Luanda, the nation's political and commercial nerve center.

UNITA, the weakest movement militarily, has avoided most of the bloodshed and has pledged the use of its troops to the Portuguese authorities in Luanda.

All three movements fought separate guerrilla wars of independence against Portuguese rule in Angola for over a decade until last year's military coup in Lisbon marked the collapse of the Portuguese empire.

Throughout the wars of independence the three tribally split movements fought each other as much as they did the Portuguese.

The MPLA is led by Dr. Augustinho Neto, a revolutionary poet, medical doctor and a Marxist whose movement is heavily supported by arms from the Soviet Union.

Neto is an Mbundu, one of several subgroups making up the Kimbundu tribe located in the center of Angola inland from Luanda.

The Mbundu, whose king was known as Ngola, (from whom Angola took its name), were conquered by the Portuguese in the 17th Century but were always the most notable of the Kimbundu kingdoms.

The long association with the Portuguese has resulted in the Kimbundu being strongly influenced by European values and their emergence as an African intelligentsia in Angola.

Portuguese authorities in Angola have tended to side with the MPLA because of Neto's Marxist views and his close personal relationship with Portuguese socialist leader Mario Soares.

The Kimbundu make up about 25 per cent of Angola's black population of 5.8 million. Diplomatic sources claim the MPLA has a trained army of an estimated 23,000 men plus several thousand armed civilians in Luanda.

The MPLA's greatest rival is the FNLA, led by Holden Roberto, whose movement has the support of a majority of Kikongo tribesmen in northern Angola.

Privacy Bill Approved By Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill hailed as one that would protect Ohioans from invasions of privacy by state and local governments cleared the Senate without dissent Wednesday.

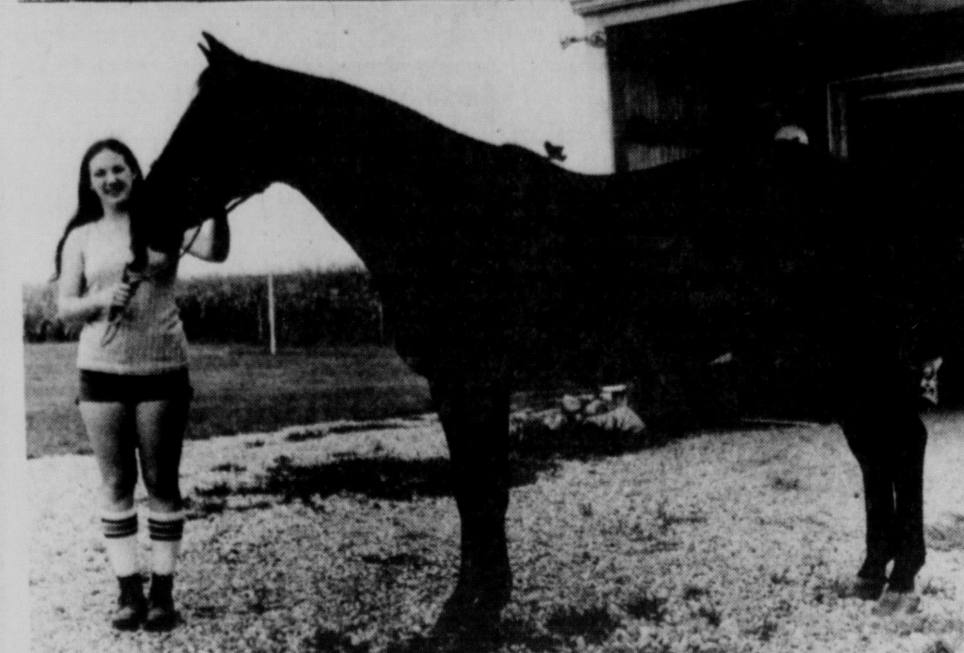

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, said his measure would prohibit government data banks from having "exclusive and secret control over personal and sensitive information about Ohio citizens."

The bill, which now goes to the House, is designed after the Federal Privacy Act of 1975, and will balance the government's need to have certain information about citizens with the citizens' right to privacy, the senator said.

It sets up a central registry at the state level and requires the Department of Administrative Services to draft rules and regulations saying what types of information can be retained in state data banks. At the same time, an Ohio Personal Information Control Board is created to do the same for local governments.

Aronoff said the legislation requires that any information kept about citizens be accurate, relevant, and up-to-date, and provides that citizens have the right to inspect their own records and to make amendments and corrections in them. The bill contains both civil and criminal remedies against persons abusing the system, he said.

The Cincinnati lawmaker's bill affects only the government sector, and not computer data kept by private companies such as that involving a person's credit standing. It also excludes law enforcement record-keeping operations.

STEER AND HORSE—Dee Dee Poling, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Poling, will be a busy young lady in the 1975 Pickaway County Fair. She is pictured preparing her quarterhorse for the advanced saddle horse contest and preparing a steer for the intermediate 4-H Steer Feeding Contest. She is a member of the Pickaway Beef and Sheep 4-H Club and the Commancheros.

Horse Show Is Monday

Monday is 4-H horse show day at the Pickaway County Fair.

Members of the 4-H horse clubs begin competition at 9 a.m. and it will continue throughout the morning and afternoon at the arena constructed by the club members and advisors.

Competition is exceptionally keen in the horse show, with young 4-H members vying for the coveted state fair stake classes. There are three of these for pony, western and English horses. Winners go on to competition on the state fair.

There are a total of 23 classes in the show.

Rules and regulations, special awards and donors are listed in the Pickaway County Fair Premium book. Junior superintendents are John Schleich, Joyce Pine and Jim Fausnaugh.

Episcopal Bishop Rips Women

NEW YORK (AP) — Maine's Episcopal bishop has sent an explicitly angry letter to those involved in the controversial ordination of 11 women as priests, saying their conduct had led indirectly to the death of Louisiana's bishop in a plane crash here.

Several recipients have sharply protested the letter's implications.

Bishop Frederick B. Wolf, of Portland, Maine, in the letter to the women ordained in Philadelphia last year and to the three bishops who officiated, said of the death June 24 of Bishop Iveson B. Noland, of New Orleans, in an airliner crash at Kennedy International Airport:

"I do not hold you personally responsible for Iveson Noland's death. However, Iveson Noland would not have died in that plane crash if you had not done what you did in Philadelphia. That is a part, by no means directly so, of the consequences of your ecclesiastical disobedience, and you have a right to be aware of this."

Bishop Wolf's letter said Bishop Noland had been on the way to attend a meeting of the bishops' advisory council, made up of heads of the church's nine provinces and of which Bishop Wolf is convenor, to deal with matters relating to the Philadelphia event and its aftermath.

"If I sound angry, it is because I am," he wrote in the letter dictated June 26, two days after the airliner crash in which 113 died.

The Rev. Betty Bone Schiess, of Syracuse, N.Y., one of the 11 women, called the letter "a low blow. It certainly lacks detachment, and doesn't speak very well for the kind of

'Gods' Multiplying In America

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The "gods" are multiplying in America. In contrast to the traditional monotheistic view of one universal God recognized through events of Jewish-Christian history, there is a rising, mixed polytheism.

That is a conclusion drawn these days by numerous religious and social analysts.

It's apparent "in the proliferation of cults," says Dr. Robert Ellwood, a religious sociologist at the University of Southern California and a specialist on new religions in modern culture.

"Withdrawal groups," he calls them.

He says they diverge from historic concepts of "churchtype groups oriented to normative values of society and family. In the cults, stronger group cohesiveness takes the place of the family and very authoritative leaders take the place of the father."

Dr. Walter Martin, a professor at the Melodyland School of Theology here, says the cults have "become very powerful in the United States" and display a "semantic jungle" of religious terms and ideas about divinity.

"The problem in dealing with cults is that words undergo redefinition," he says. "This makes for multifarious definitions of God, a kind of pantheism or polytheistic theology that does not bear any relation to historic religion."

David L. Miller, associate professor of religion at Syracuse University, sees evidence of the shift in current "interest in the occult, in magic, in extraterrestrial life, in Hindu India and Buddhist Japan, in multidemoned China, in sorcery, in 'new religions' and many other meaning systems hitherto foreign."

Pet Parade Set For Thursday

One of the most colorful events, the Pet Parade, will be held Thursday at 5 p.m., according to Dick Shaw, Fair Director.

The annual event is sponsored by the Circleville Jaycees.

Premiums will be awarded for: typical boy and his pet, typical girl and her pet, novelty display, unusual pets, greatest number of pets shown by an entrant, best decorated boy's bike, best decorated girl's bike, ponies, best dressed dog, and best dressed cat.

"massive and total access to all the gods of men, Eastern and Western, primitive and modern, heretical and orthodox, mad and sane," he writes in a book recently issued by Harper and Row, called "The New Polytheism: Rebirth of the Gods and Goddesses."

Citing ancient cultural roots of American democracy, he says, "The gods and goddesses of Greece are our heritage. Sooner or later, it is they who will return."

Some scholars suggest there are contemporary tendencies toward conditions of ancient Rome, when minority Judaism and fledgling Christianity were part of a scene dominated by the official Roman pantheon of gods.

Ellwood and Martin, who spoke here at a recent annual meeting of the Religion Newswriters Association, including news reporters of religion from across the country, noted the rapid growth of various closely communal cults.

Martin, author of "The Kingdom of the Cults" recently issued by Bethany Press, noted that Jesus predicted a rise of false "Christs" and "gods" as the world moved toward its consummation. Martin added: "The massive proliferation of cults would indicate we're in that age."

Episcopal Bishop Rips Women

NEW YORK (AP) — Maine's Episcopal bishop has sent an explicitly angry letter to those involved in the controversial ordination of 11 women as priests, saying their conduct had led indirectly to the death of Louisiana's bishop in a plane crash here.

Several recipients have sharply protested the letter's implications.

Bishop Frederick B. Wolf, of Portland, Maine, in the letter to the women ordained in Philadelphia last year and to the three bishops who officiated, said of the death June 24 of Bishop Iveson B. Noland, of New Orleans, in an airliner crash at Kennedy International Airport:

"I do not hold you personally responsible for Iveson Noland's death. However, Iveson Noland would not have died in that plane crash if you had not done what you did in Philadelphia. That is a part, by no means directly so, of the consequences of your ecclesiastical disobedience, and you have a right to be aware of this."

Bishop Wolf's letter said Bishop Noland had been on the way to attend a meeting of the bishops' advisory council, made up of heads of the church's nine provinces and of which Bishop Wolf is convenor, to deal with matters relating to the Philadelphia event and its aftermath.

"If I sound angry, it is because I am," he wrote in the letter dictated June 26, two days after the airliner crash in which 113 died.

The Rev. Betty Bone Schiess, of Syracuse, N.Y., one of the 11 women, called the letter "a low blow. It certainly lacks detachment, and doesn't speak very well for the kind of

The Rev. Nancy Wittig, of Newark, N.J., another of the 11, said "it's a very pathetic letter. It says more about Bishop Wolf than anything else."

'Gods' Multiplying In America

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The "gods" are multiplying in America. In contrast to the traditional monotheistic view of one universal God recognized through events of Jewish-Christian history, there is a rising, mixed polytheism.

That is a conclusion drawn these days by numerous religious and social analysts.

It's apparent "in the proliferation of cults," says Dr. Robert Ellwood, a religious sociologist at the University of Southern California and a specialist on new religions in modern culture.

"Withdrawal groups," he calls them.

He says they diverge from historic concepts of "churchtype groups oriented to normative values of society and family. In the cults, stronger group cohesiveness takes the place of the family and very authoritative leaders take the place of the father."

Dr. Walter Martin, a professor at the Melodyland School of Theology here, says the cults have "become very powerful in the United States" and display a "semantic jungle" of religious terms and ideas about divinity.

"The problem in dealing with cults is that words undergo redefinition," he says. "This makes for multifarious definitions of God, a kind of pantheism or polytheistic theology that does not bear any relation to historic religion."

David L. Miller, associate professor of religion at Syracuse University, sees evidence of the shift in current "interest in the occult, in magic, in extraterrestrial life, in Hindu India and Buddhist Japan, in multidemoned China, in sorcery, in 'new religions' and many other meaning systems hitherto foreign."

Pet Parade Set For Thursday

One of the most colorful events, the Pet Parade, will be held Thursday at 5 p.m., according to Dick Shaw, Fair Director.

The annual event is sponsored by the Circleville Jaycees.

Premiums will be awarded for: typical boy and his pet, typical girl and her pet, novelty display, unusual pets, greatest number of pets shown by an entrant, best decorated boy's bike, best decorated girl's bike, ponies, best dressed dog, and best dressed cat.

"massive and total access to all the gods of men, Eastern and Western, primitive and modern, heretical and orthodox, mad and sane," he writes in a book recently issued by Harper and Row, called "The New Polytheism: Rebirth of the Gods and Goddesses."

Citing ancient cultural roots of American democracy, he says, "The gods and goddesses of Greece are our heritage. Sooner or later, it is they who will return."

Some scholars suggest there are contemporary tendencies toward conditions of ancient Rome, when minority Judaism and fledgling Christianity were part of a scene dominated by the official Roman pantheon of gods.

Ellwood and Martin, who spoke here at a recent annual meeting of the Religion Newswriters Association, including news reporters of religion from across the country, noted the rapid growth of various closely communal cults.

Martin, author of "The Kingdom of the Cults" recently issued by Bethany Press, noted that Jesus predicted a rise of false "Christs" and "gods" as the world moved toward its consummation. Martin added: "The massive proliferation of cults would indicate we're in that age."

NTPA Sanctioned Pull Set During Fair Week

The Pickaway County Agricultural Society is sponsoring a tractor pull Wednesday and Thursday.

The Class B pull is sanctioned by the National Tractor Pullers Association. The $12,000 purse pull will feature six NTPA classes: Wednesday, 7 p.m. are 5000 modified, 5000 super stock, 9000 modified; Thursday, 7 p.m. are 7000 modified, 12000 super stock, 12000 open.

The pull will be held on the new course constructed inside the race track in front of the grandstand.

Tractor pulling is growing rapidly as a national sport and now draws pullers from all over the United States and Canada with the 1975 pull attendance expected to be over 1 million. What is tractor pulling and how did it get started?

The spirit of competition is certainly nothing new and the first pulls probably started with ancient merchants delivering goods to market on camel or horses. Horse pulling then branched into tractor pulling with the coming of mechanized horsepower.

The first recorded tractor pulls were in 1929 in Vaughnsville, Ohio; and Bowling Green, Missouri. A flat bottom sled filled with stones was used as the pulled weight at the first pulls. This developed into a flat bottom with human weights, and eventually into a weight transfer machine.

As tractor pulling grew, states formed state associations. But problems occurred with inter-state pulls as rules and safety regulations were inconsistent. In 1969 several men met in Indianapolis to discuss the creation of a national organization. NTPA was incorporated in 1970 in Upper Sandusky, Ohio, and has standardized tractor pulls all over the country. NTPA now sanctions over 60 pulls a year with purses totaling well over a half-million dollars.

NTPA is a tractor pullers organization with every member-puller from a member state represented at rules meetings by the NTPA delegates elected by the members of that state.

The bulk of pullers are farmers who travel the circuit as a hobby between and during farmwork, accumulating points for end-of-the-circuit honors. Each pull is divided into classes ac-ording to size and type of tractor. Pullers score points according to where they place in a specific class at each pull. Top point winners compete for point championships at the Indianapolis Super Pull, an invitational pull held annually in Indianapolis.

Point winners work hard to achieve their standing. Proper mechanics by following NTPA rules, an attractive paint job, and good sportsmanship are essentials to being a good puller. There is much work and preparation for the puller before he ever reaches the crowd at the track.

NTPA tractors feature such combinations as blown chevy's, multiple engines, tank engines, and 12 cylinder aircraft engines. Classes feature stock and modified tractors. Stock tractors run with the original manufactured engine. Modified tractors or "hot rods" are often wild creations, engineered and built by the puller himself.

Power and strength are necessities. The principle is to transfer weight from the trailer wheels to the sled. As the wheels move rearward, the weight transfers from the wheels to the sled. Through turbos, fuel, and cooling systems, a puller creates more power

Sheep Open Show Set Thursday

Veterans Questions Answered

(Q) I understand that a number of VA benefits and other benefits were discontinued as of May 7, 1975, for any person entering military service. Exactly what are these benefits to which a person who enters service after that date will not be entitled?

(A) The President's Proclamation on May 7, 1975, officially ended the Viet Nam Era and simultaneously terminated the eligibility period for those Viet Nam Era benefits he is empowered by law to end. The Proclamation did bring to an end, except for those in service prior to May 7, 1975, some ten major benefits. Eligibility has ended for the following:

1. Special consideration for service-connection "for those engaged in combat with the enemy in active service"
2. Non service connected disability pensions.
3. Non service connected death pension.
4. Presumption of psychosis removed.

5. Ineligibility for non-service pension also removes prescription medicine eligibility.
6. Ineligibility for non service pension precludes issue of invalid lifts and other devices.
7. Funeral, burial and plot allowance eliminated.
8. Employment and training benefits curtailed. No special emphasis for employing such ineligible in government contracts. No preference in employment as Vet Reps. No special preference in Federal Civil Service.

9. Health, Manpower Training Grants . . . Initial service after May 7, 1975, will not be afforded any priority for grants for health Manpower Training programs.
10. State Soldiers Home cannot count those who serve initially after May 7, when seeking additional nursing home bed funding from the Federal Government.

Doctors Urge Rest For Isabel Peron

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The Argentine government announced today that doctors have advised President Isabel Peron to rest and limit her activities, setting off new speculation that she will seek a leave of absence.

A medical bulletin released by the government press secretary said the 44-year-old president, who was ill with the flu last week, "has not observed during the period of convalescence the prescribed rest, for reasons of work."

Nuts: No Champagne For Brand's Son

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — "It's just a bunch of huggin' and kissin' and shoutin' and I didn't get no champagne."

So spoke a disgruntled buddy of 12-year-old Kevin Brand, one of the few splashdown party spectators unimpressed or uninvolved in the revelry hailing the return to earth Thursday of the Apollo astronauts.

Television viewers across this space community watched the bull's-eye splashdown and recovery of Tom Stafford, Deke Slayton and Vance Brand, but it was something special for the astronauts' families.

"It's still the same old tense splashdown," sighed Faye Stafford.

"I cried a bit," admitted Marjory Slayton.

"It was marvelous, wasn't it?" asked Joan Brand.

Following custom, Mrs. Stafford and Mrs. Slayton invited friends into their homes for private television sessions and parties.

But not Mrs. Brand, who broke totally with tradition, first by working all day at her job as construction supervisor for a Houston area home-builder.

Then she opened the doors of a nearby office for a madcap TV party punctuated by the sounds of popping champagne corks and attended by at least 100 persons, including kids and a gentleman clad in orange cowboy boots and turquoise western suit.

"Down the hatch," said Mrs. Brand happily as she led off a champagne toast with sons Kevin and Patrick, 17, and daughter Susan, 21.

The Brand family got a special treat in that Stephanie Brand, 19, appeared on the live telecast of the splashdown and recovery as a guest of one of the national networks.

"I'm not sure what I thought about that, but I laughed a lot at her," said Kevin, who watched most of the proceedings sprawled across his mother's lap, then joined a group of young friends for a party of his own.

He was not impressed by the champagne — "I've had it before at New Year's Eve. I don't like the taste but I drink it anyway."

Mrs. Brand intended to send her husband a special message in Hawaii today to mark their 22nd wedding anniversary. And she figures Brand is already pondering his next space mission.

"I imagine he will now more than ever want to stay with the space program," she predicted.

Mrs. Stafford, meanwhile, took note of her husband's four space missions to date and said, "I think this is the last one. But that is what I thought on Apollo 10."

Mrs. Slayton, whose husband had waited 16 years for this, his first space flight, emerged from her home, lifted a champagne glass skyward and said simply, "To Dad and the other guys."

Ulcer Calmed By $300,000

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— One of the things David V. Morgan can look forward to after having won the Ohio Lottery's $300,000 prize Thursday night is less ice cream and milk.

Morgan, 38, was so nervous about being a contestant on the Lottery that he gained two pounds eating ice cream and drinking milk to soothe his ulcer.

Morgan of Oregon, a suburb of Toledo, said he plans to use the money to pay the mortgage on his house. He and his wife also plan to visit relatives in Texas and Tennessee. Morgan, a machine operator with the Houghton Elevator and Escalators Co., said he plans to keep his job.

The two $300,000 prize winners were Mat Kom of Cleveland and Ruth W. Moeller of Cincinnati.

The remaining prizes of $15,000 each were won by Ralph T. Bambino of Cleveland, Evelyn M. Postlewait of Canton, John G. Vogrin of Youngstown and Robert L. Smith of Perrysburg.

Pickaway County Fair Style Show, sponsored by Extension Homemakers Clubs, will be held 8:15 p.m. July 31, at the Grange and 4-H Building.

The final entry date for this year's show using the theme "From Petticoats To Pants Suits" is July 11. Extension Homemakers must know on or before this date if they are planning to model in the show in order that plans and program can be completed. All work or outfits entered must be made by the exhibitor but may be modeled by another person.

There are two divisions, junior and senior. Any exhibitor who is a 4-H member cannot model articles of clothing that are a 4-H project as these appear in 4-H revues.

Complete entry lists will be found in the fair books available at the fairgrounds or County Extension Homemakers office, 137½ W. Franklin St.

4-H Beef Show Is Wednesday

Traditionally the junior fair beef show at the Pickaway County Fair has been one of the highlights of the week as 4-H members show the animals they have been feeding and grooming for eight months or more.

The beef show will begin 8:30 a.m. Wednesday with judging of the steers. The grand champion will be selected about noon and the breeding classes will be judged in the afternoon.

Irv Bell, a Muskingum County beef cattle producer and a former 4-H extension agent in Pickaway County, will be the judge of the show.

Junior superintendents are Molly Hamrick, Jim Fausnaugh and Karen Ewing. The beef show will be climaxed with the annual auction Thursday.

Rules and regulations concerning the beef show are listed in the premium book.

'Ivory Curtain' Descending For India's Wealthy Group?

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

The hungry masses don't seem concerned about India's tilt toward totalitarian government, but many in India's educated classes believe an "ivory curtain" is descending to cut them off from each other and the outside world.

"Everyone is petrified. We are becoming a police state," commented a British-educated New Delhi businesswoman, three weeks after Prime Minister Indira Gandhi proclaimed a state of emergency and assumed near-dictatorial powers.

The businesswoman and others interviewed in major Indian cities in the past three weeks cited harsh press censorship, intensified police surveillance and denial of basic rights of assembly and political criticism to back up their fears that freewheeling democracy is dead in India.

Veterans Memorial Airport News

Airport Manager

Missed again. Well, I've got a good excuse this time! I took a short vacation last week and took my family to Lake Erie. We took the boat out to one of the islands and anchored for three days and pretended we were the only people on earth. Would you believe we were 10 miles from downtown no-where and just getting used to the idea, when out of the setting sun came an airplane! This guy must have been a sadist because he circled us several times, tipped his wings and departed as I was trying to stop my wife from throwing our supper (a bottle of wine) at him. Well, I saved the wine bottle, do you have any idea how it feels to be thrown into Lake Erie with a bottle of wine in your ear and as you're going down the third time, your wife throws you a twenty pound anchor?

A very good friend of mine and many of you, Kenny Costlow, was involved in a very serious auto accident last week. For a time he was not expected to live but I'm grateful to say he's now coming along fine.

The evening I visited Kenny at the hospital he was trying to talk his doctor into flying lessons! Kenny will not be able to return to work for quite awhile and as we all know, it's difficult to support a family with everything going right. Kenny was always ready to help everyone and now he could use some help. We have a collection started and your donation would certainly be appreciated by all of us. Stop out to see me or call me at 474-2009. Hi Kenny!

I'd like to say a belated thanks to the Circleville Emergency Medical Team for bringing their new vehicle out for the air show. Thank goodness we didn't need their professional service, but it's great to know they're around. Also thanks to Orlando Brown and the Pickaway Township Fire Department for their help and service. Saying thanks to Dwight Radcliff and the Deputies of the Sheriffs Department doesn't seem like enough but thanks. Dwight's (Eye in the Sky) Norm McClelland supervised the security and crowd control and all of the Deputies put out 600 per cent. We sometimes take all of these people for granted but they do a fantastic job and always seem to be there when you need them.

New students at Pickaway Mini International are — Steve Bowers, Rick Brown, Jim Kibby, Dick Moore, Harry Payne Sr. Gerald Woolsey and we've set a new record. We now have more students than groundhogs! Now if we could somehow or someday get General Telephone to put in that telephone booth — but then since they don't realize any income from the Pickaway County Area I don't suppose they feel any obligation to help out. If any of you other folks though, that have already donated furniture and trees and shrubs and machinery and play equipment and time and people, unselfishly, in order to make your Veterans Memorial Airport one of the finest in the Nation, with no profit to yourself, happen to have an old telephone booth around, we certainly would appreciate it.

Well, gotta run. Please don't forget our collection for Kenny Costlow. Stop out and drop something in the can. Please.

Veterans Memorial Airport News

Airport Manager

Missed again. Well, I've got a good excuse this time! I took a short vacation last week and took my family to Lake Erie. We took the boat out to one of the islands and anchored for three days and pretended we were the only people on earth. Would you believe we were 10 miles from downtown no-where and just getting used to the idea, when out of the setting sun came an airplane! This guy must have been a sadist because he circled us several times, tipped his wings and departed as I was trying to stop my wife from throwing our supper (a bottle of wine) at him. Well, I saved the wine bottle, do you have any idea how it feels to be thrown into Lake Erie with a bottle of wine in your ear and as you're going down the third time, your wife throws you a twenty pound anchor?

A very good friend of mine and many of you, Kenny Costlow, was involved in a very serious auto accident last week. For a time he was not expected to live but I'm grateful to say he's now coming along fine.

The evening I visited Kenny at the hospital he was trying to talk his doctor into flying lessons! Kenny will not be able to return to work for quite awhile and as we all know, it's difficult to support a family with everything going right. Kenny was always ready to help everyone and now he could use some help. We have a collection started and your donation would certainly be appreciated by all of us. Stop out to see me or call me at 474-2009. Hi Kenny!

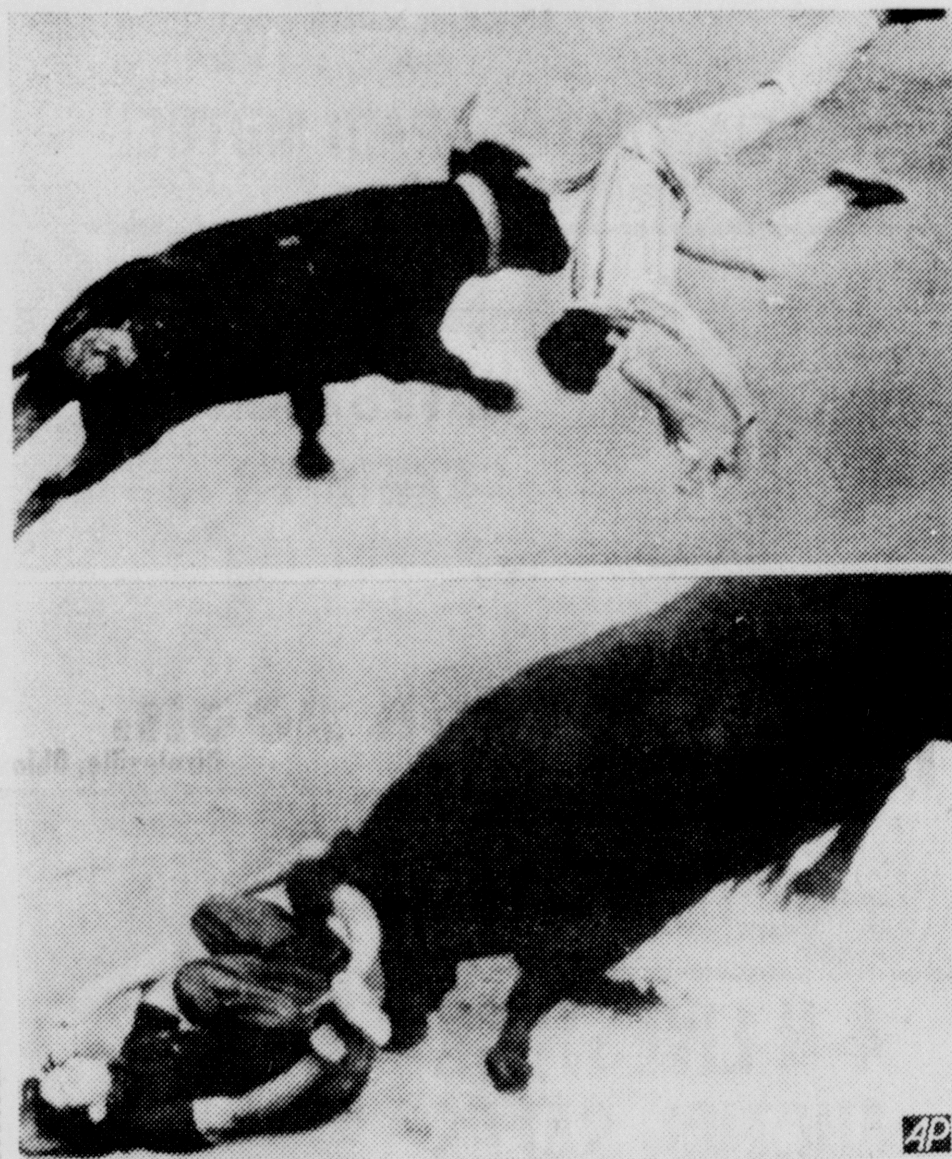

I'd like to say a belated thanks to the Circleville Emergency Medical Team for bringing their new vehicle out for the air show. Thank goodness we didn't need their professional service, but it's great to know they're around. Also thanks to Orlando Brown and the Pickaway Township Fire Department for their help and service. Saying thanks to Dwight Radcliff and the Deputies of the Sheriff's Department doesn't seem like enough but thanks. Dwight's (Eye in the Sky) Norm McClelland supervised the security and crowd control and all of the Deputies put out 600 per cent. We sometimes take all of these people for granted but they do a fantastic job and always seem to be there when you need them.

New students at Pickaway Mini International are — Steve Bowers, Rick Brown, Jim Kibby, Dick Moore, Harry Payne Sr. Gerald Woolsey and we've set a new record. We now have more students than groundhogs! Now if we could somehow or someday get General Telephone to put in that telephone booth — but then since they don't realize any income from the Pickaway County Area I don't suppose they feel any obligation to help out. If any of you other folks though, that have already donated furniture and trees and shrubs and machinery and play equipment and time and people, unselfishly, in order to make your Veterans Memorial Airport one of the finest in the Nation, with no profit to yourself, happen to have an old telephone booth around, we certainly would appreciate it.

Well, gotta run. Please don't forget our collection for Kenny Costlow. Stop out and drop something in the can. Please.

Showers over southeastern Ohio ended during the night and skies were generally partly cloudy over most of the state this morning. Overnight lows ranged from the mid-50s extreme northwest to near 70 extreme south.

Low pressure south of Hudson Bay in Canada and high pressure over Iowa have combined to produce a northwesterly flow of cool dry air over Ohio. The cool front that passed through the state Thursday is south of the Ohio river today and continuing southward. As the high pressure over Iowa drifts slowly eastward it will assure a continuation of pleasant summer weather over Ohio during the next two days.

Gas Surplus Use Sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbia Gas of Ohio is under orders to try to find Ohio customers before it sends 4.6 billion cubic feet of natural gas outside the state this summer.

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio said it had directed Columbia to make every effort to find Ohio customers first.

The firm said it had 4.6 billion cubic feet of natural gas available that regular customers could not use at this time. It said it did not have storage facilities for the gas.

The firm noted that Federal Power Commission regulations allow the company to offer the gas to out-of-state customers of Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., Columbia Gas of Ohio's supplier.

RESCUE ATTEMPT—National Guard helicopter hovers over logjam in the middle of the Brandywine River in Wilmington, Del. to try to rescue one of six rafters who tried to ride down the swollen stream. Firemen later brought the man ashore on a rope and the other five washed ashore uninjured.

Auto, Homeowner Insurance To Rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The rising cost of auto parts and the sharp jump in claims may force an increase in auto and homeowners insurance rates, an executive of a major insurance company says.

John E. Fisher, president of Nationwide Insurance, said auto claims have gone up 20 per cent and homeowner claims have jumped 22 per cent in the last year.

"More and more companies are offering auto and homeowners insurance at a loss," Fisher said, "because these coverages have become underpriced as a result of rising claims costs."

The average claim for a damaged car is $455 while the average homeowner claim is $498, he said.

Nationwide is the third largest auto insurer in Ohio and the sixth largest in the country. In homeowners insurance, it ranks third in Ohio and 11th in the nation.

"Unless there's dramatic improvement in the claims picture—and there are signs that it's only worsening—insurance rates will have to go up for these coverages.

The chief cause of bigger auto repair claims, Fisher said, is the rising cost of auto parts. He said the cost of parts most frequently damaged in traffic accidents has risen 41 per cent since 1971.

Fisher said the federal government's cost of living index showed that car insurance rates were about a half per cent lower at the end of the first three months of this year than they were four years ago.

"That is rather significant in view of rampant inflation," he said. During the same time, he said government figures showed that the general cost of living rose nearly 32 per cent.

Reductions in traffic accidents and injuries were given as the chief reasons the insurance industry was able to hold the line on auto insurance.

But in mid-1974, Fisher said the picture began to change as auto part prices began rising. He said the accident rate began to climb about the same time.

Soaring building costs are driving up the size of homeowners insurance

Miscellaneous Projects Judging Starts Monday

The Pickaway County Fair and 4-H have something for everyone as is evidenced in the miscellaneous projects category which is under the supervision of junior superintendents Jim Kuhlwein, Doug Radcliff, Tina Cottril, Patty Derflinger, Tammy Martin and Bill Hamman.

Judging of the numerous projects begins at 8:30 a.m. Monday.

claims, he said. Adding more strain is a growing number of fire claims and a sharp increase in burglaries and thefts, Fisher added.

Sheep Show Is Thursday

The Junior Fair Sheep Show will begin 8:30 a.m. Thursday in the sheep arena at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

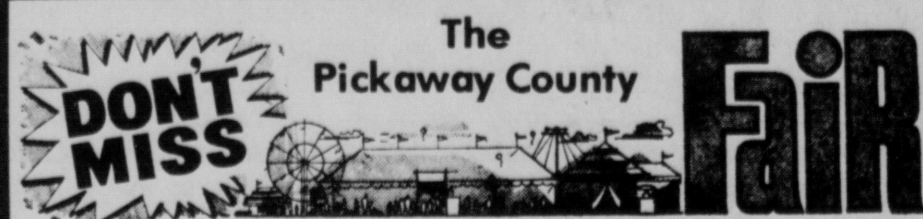

Market lambs will be judged first and then the breeding classes.

Junior fair superintendents for the sheep show are Ann Bowser, John Schleich and Tina Cottrell. Russell Johnson will judge the show this year. There are nine special awards and the donors of these awards are listed in the fair premium book.

ROTARY BRASS—Rotary president Dick Tootle, left, introduced District Governor Joe Christner of Wellston to Rotarians Thursday in the cafeteria of the Community Methodist Church. Christner congratulated the local Rotary officers and committee chairmen for conducting a very well-prepared assembly and said the local chapter was one of the leaders in the state. The speaker also urged Rotarians to live by the Four Way Test in their everyday living to build a greater America.

Farmers Get Bigger Food Dollar Slice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers took a slightly larger bite out of the consumer food dollar in June, largely because of higher livestock prices, according to figures by the Agriculture Department.

Using a 65-item list of market basket foods, officials said Thursday that

Vegetable Show Set For Fair

Home gardeners and commercial growers alike will have an opportunity to display their talents at the Vegetable and Gourd Shows at the 1975 Pickaway County Fair.

Exhibits will be accepted until 12 noon Sunday by Chairman Ray Noeher and Carl Martin. They will be released 9 p.m. Friday.

Exhibitors should correctly name the variety of the entry.

All vegetables must be grown by the exhibitor in 1975. Awards will be based on maturity, freedom from disease, uniformity, and trueness of type or variety.

In the vegetable contest, varieties to be judged include beans, beets, burssels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, Chinese cabbage, cucumbers, egg plant, endive, kohlrabi, muskmellon, onions, parsnips, peppers, pickles, pimentos, potatoes, sweet potatoes, yams, pumpkins, radishes, salsify, squash, swiss chard, sweet corn, tomatoes, turnips, and watermelon.

The Gourd Show will be held in conjunction with the Vegetable Show.

farmers received an equivalent of 42.8 cents from each $1 that consumers spent last month, up from 41.8 cents in May and 40.1 cents in June 1974.

"Most of the increase resulted from a sharp jump in prices for beef cattle, hogs, broilers, and fresh vegetables," the department said in a report. "In contrast, decreases were sharp for eggs, farm ingredients in bakery and cereal products, oilseed products and sugar."

Retail beef prices rose to a record average of nearly $1.58 a pound in June, measured on an all-cut basis, up 10 cents from May. The previous high was $1.50 a pound in February 1974.

Pork in retail stores rose to a near-record of almost $1.31 a pound, compared with $1.23 in May. The record was almost $1.32 a pound in August 1973.

Although the farm prices of cattle and hogs have declined some from their peaks in June, preliminary surveys by the department show that retail prices continued their upward momentum into early July, including an average of more than $1.63 a pound for beef and a record of almost $1.41 a pound for pork by July 5.

Middleman charges for transporting, processing and selling farm-produced food increased five-tenths of 1 per cent in June and averaged 3.1 per cent more than in the same month last year.

The report said that a one-pound loaf of white bread rose to 35.6 cents last month, down from 36.2 cents in May. The farm value of wheat in a loaf was 3.6 cents, down from 4.1 cents in May.

Eggs in retail stores dropped to 66.9 cents a dozen from 70.6 in May, with the farm value declining to 40.9 cents from 45.2 a month earlier. The middleman share rose to 26 cents a dozen from 25.4 in May, the report said.

Blue Lancers Add Award

The Blue Lancers, Baton, Drill and Drum Corps under the direction of Elaine Lloyd and Janet Wright, have added a fifth award to their credit from the Grove City Fair.

Seven baton marching units participated in the Grove City parade with only first and second place awards presented.

The second place trophy was presented to the Blue Lancers for overall appearance and marching ability. The first place trophy was presented to the Mariners Baton Corps of Columbus.

The Lancers have participated in eight area parades, five of which presented awards to marching units. Awards received included the Adelphi Bologna Festival, third place; Pomery Regatta Festival, second place; Vinton County Festival, first place; Ashville Fourth of July, outstanding exhibition award; and the Grove City Fair Parade, second place.

The Corps has quite a busy schedule prepared for the next three months participating in most of Ohio's larger festivals. They will also take part in the Ohio State Fair Corps Competition, Aug. 22-23.

Squabble Erupts Over Ethics Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, branded as "foolish" on Thursday a charge by a Senate Republican that the leadership has quietly killed a measure prohibiting educators from serving in the legislature.

Ocasek, an associate professor at the University of Akron, was asked about the assertion by Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, D-19 Ashland, who introduced a bill Tuesday which, in effect, would prohibit anyone to serve in the legislature while being on a second public payroll.

The bill was referred Wednesday to the Senate Ways and Means Committee. Van Meter charged that his bill "like all other ethics bills in this legislature" should have gone to the Senate Judiciary Committee. "It was his (Ocasek's) way of killing it," Van Meter charged.

Ocasek took sharp exception, pointing out that the legislature 10 years ago passed "overwhelmingly" a bill that specifically permitted teachers to serve in the General Assembly. He said the bill originated in the House, but when it came to the Senate, was sent to the then existing state government committee.

Ocasek said the old state government committee later became what is now the ways and means committee. "We (the reference committee) sent this bill to exactly the same committee," he said.

Van Meter apparently is correct in feeling that his measure can't be passed at the current session, expected to end in about a week. "It's foolish for him to come in with a bill and expect it to get considered this late," Ocasek said.

He added that the Ashland County lawmaker had a chance early this month to amend a bill that cleared the way, apparently, for Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-17 Ironton, to become superintendent of Lawrence County schools in October. "He had the chance, then, when the subject was before the Senate," Ocasek said.

What became known as the "Collins bill" was signed into law by Gov. James A. Rhodes, without comment on Van Meter's allegations at the time that it would put Collins into a conflict of interest.

Van Meter, 30, who lists himself in legislative rosters as a "fulltime lawmaker", predicts Collins never actually will be permitted to serve as superintendent. He said "his (Collins') own prosecutor has said he is going to go into court on constitutional grounds as soon as Collins is sworn in."

Ocasek said the legislature several times has reaffirmed the right of teachers to serve in the legislature, and added that Van Meter was the only member of the Senate two years ago to vote against the state's code of ethics law. "You might ask him about that, now that he's so ethical," the Senate leader said.

Van Meter couldn't be reached immediately to respond to the comment.

Boy Scouts Compete For Prizes

Each Explorer Post, Boy Scout Troop, and Cub Scout Pack in the county may plan and exhibit not more than two displays at the fair.

Exhibits, which must be in place in the coliseum no later than 12 noon Sunday, will be judged according to rules established by the Boy Scouts of America District Activities Committees. Judges will be two BSA District Committee Members and one guest judge.

A fee of $10 will be given for each exhibit, but only one exhibit of each Scout unit will be judged for prizes. Premiums are $7 for first, $5 for second, $3 for third, $2 for fourth, and $1 for fifth place.

Each Scout unit that desires space must make application to the Boy Scout Pickaway District Activities Chairman. Booth space to be allotted will be arranged in six foot squares.

All material for the exhibits must be made and prepared by the Scouts and must portray some part of the individual program.

There will be two categories for judging. Honorary societies will compete in one category and Cub Scout packs in the other.

Swine Show Popular With 4-H Members

In terms of the number of entries, the Pickaway County Junior Fair Swine Show is one of the most popular with young 4-H Club members.

The show will be held Tuesday beginning at 8:30 a.m. with Charles Myers serving as judge.

Junior superintendents for the show are Nancy Schein, Barbara Bolender, Bill Hamman and Scot Harmount.

There are four market classes and four breeding classes. Breeds recognized in the gilt classes are Berkshire, Chester White, Duroc, Hampshire, Poland China, Spotted Poland China and Yorkshire.

Special swine awards are listed in the fair premium book.

Burt Reynolds Trial Witness

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Burt Reynolds has testified in a burglary-assault trial that a rifle and two watches were stolen from his home during his absence.

Reynolds appeared as a witness Wednesday, the third day of testimony in the trial of Vaughn Greenwood, 32.

Greenwood is accused of ransacking the actor's home Feb. 1 and of attacking two of Reynolds' neighbors with a hatchet. Shown a pair of blue patent leather shoes, Reynolds said they were his.

Then he explained, "They were a gift from a fan. I kept them because they were so ugly."

No School Exhibit

The School Exhibit of the 1975 Pickaway County Fair has been cancelled due to lack of interest by area schools.

It will be resumed when sufficient interest is expressed by students.

Demonstration Contests Open To 4-H Members

The annual 4-H Demonstration Contests will be held Friday beginning at 9 a.m. in the livestock show arena and the 4-H and Grange building.

Demonstrations do not have to be related to the member's project area. All club members are eligible.

Pickaway County may send a total of five teams or individuals to the Ohio State Fair in home economics and five in agriculture.

Junior fair board members in charge of the demonstration contests are Bill Hamman, Doug Radcliff, Tim Lett, Taundra Van Pelt and Ann Bowser.

Bike Rodeo Set Opening Day

There are numerous bicycle 4-H clubs in Pickaway County and Sunday at 12:30 p.m. These youngsters get their chance to perform in the annual bicycle rodeo.

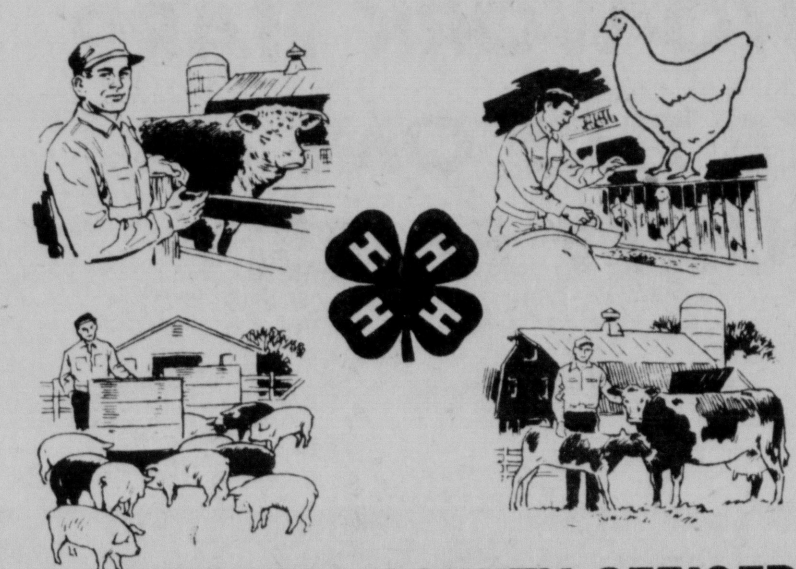

There will be awards for age groups 7 to 9 years, 10 to 12 years and 13 and above. A grand champion and reserve champion of the rodeo will also be announced.

Junior superintendents for the rodeo are Scott Harmount, Bob Winter, Judy Reichelderfer and Kyle Jones.

Drug Abuse Bill To Face Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Senate is expected to vote next week on a House-approved bill revising Ohio's drug laws, including lighter penalties for possessing small amounts of marijuana and hashish.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, putting hashish, a concentrated derivative from the same plant as marijuana, into the same category, recommended passage 9-0 Thursday.

Leaders reportedly have given assurances to Atty. Gen. William J. Brown that it will be acted upon by the Senate before the legislature's expected summer adjournment Aug. 1.

UC Hurt By Veto Of Funding

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Without the special $10 million subsidy from the Ohio legislature, the University of Cincinnati's switch to full state affiliation may be in jeopardy, school officials said Thursday.

The doubts were expressed in the wake of Wednesday's unsuccessful attempt by the Ohio House of Representatives to override Gov. James A. Rhodes' veto of the $10 million bonus to help the switch from city to state ownership.

"To prepare a budget in the absence of the $10 million will require some very difficult decisions," said James Eden, vice president for finance and management.

Possible actions if the $10 million is not approved could include tuition increases, a freeze on employee raises and new hiring and closing some campus facilities, according to another university official.

The school continues to operate in "limbo" pending the outcome of efforts to restore the $10 million, Eden said.

Though efforts are under way in the legislature to restore the vetoed funds, State Sen. William F. Bowen, D-9, said "it is very likely" the Senate will refuse to allocate the money.

"That money is back in the bag," said Bowen, who represents part of Cincinnati. "And there are a lot of senators with pet programs."

Cincinnati voters must pass a charter amendment to release the school from its municipal affiliation and officials think the subsidy cut may weaken those chances.

"The long-run solution to UC's financial problems remains full state affiliation," Eden said.

The General Assembly allocated the special subsidy to complete the school's conversion by July of 1977, but Rhodes vetoed the funds because they were channeled through the Democratic-controlled State Controlling Board.

Brown sent the bill to the legislature early this year.

House sponsors, apprised of an extensive series of amendments by the Senate committee, lauded the panel's work and said they could accept it without change.

Rep. Edward J. Orlett, D-34 Dayton, chairman of a House subcommittee that considered the bill for about three months, said "it's a good bill. I would recommend it as is." He said he would like to see it enacted promptly "so we can give it a couple of years to see how it works."

The Senate committee, headed by Sen. David L. Headley, D-28 Barberton removed hashish from the bill's list of more dangerous drugs and put it into the same category with marijuana.

However, hashish is said to be about 20 times stronger than marijuana, and the penalties were adjusted accordingly.

For example, the bill provides that possession of 100 grams or less of marijuana is a minor misdemeanor punishable by a fine of up to $100. The same penalty would apply to hashish, except that the amount would have to be five grams (about one-sixth of an ounce) or less.

Possession of more than 100 grams of marijuana or more than five grams of hashish would be treated as a fourth degree misdemeanor punishable by a $250 fine and up to 30 days in jail.

As the bill left the House, possession of hashish in any amount was a fourth degree felony and could result in a prison term of up to five years.

Other changes the Senate committee made in the House version included a lessening of mandated, nonprobational prison terms for serious offenders. The House had them ranging from 3 to 20 years, but Headley's committee fixed them starting at six months for sale of so-called "soft" drugs up to 10 years for financing a heroin peddling operation.

Corn Inventory At Low Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's corn inventory on July 1 was about 1.15 billion bushels, 21 per cent less than a year earlier and the smallest amount on hand on that date since 1952, says the Agriculture Department.

The corn stocks were reported in a quarterly inventory of grains stored on farms, in warehouses and elsewhere in the supply pipeline.

Officials said the wheat reserve on July 1 was 319 million bushels, 29 per cent more than a year earlier but 27 per cent less than two years ago. Except for last year, it was the smallest July 1 wheat reserve since 1952.

The inventory report did not include the new 1975 wheat crop estimated at a record of nearly 2.2 billion bushels, nor prospects for a record corn harvest in the fall or 6.05 billion bushels.

Bonuses May Be Changed For Benefits

Randall W. Sweeney, Director of the Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission, today announced that veterans who have already received Vietnam Era bonuses can request a change of their original choice of either a cash or educational bonus.

According to Sweeney, this policy has been adopted because some veterans have indicated they were not fully aware of the option available, when they filed for a bonus. He said the Commission has received more than 1,450 requests for changes, and recently most of them have been from cash bonuses to educational assistance.

"We know," Sweeney said, "the people of this State intended their veterans to have a generous educational allowance when they voted for the Vietnam bonus, particularly since they approved doubling the cash bonus if used for educational assistance. We are trying to implement their wishes."

To apply for a change, a full refund of any bonus paid, must be made to the Commission by certified check or money order. Requests must also be made in writing and will be considered on an individual basis.

Sweeney emphasized that a request for change can be made no later than 90 days after either a bonus check has been cashed or an educational entitlement used, or before October 21, 1975, whichever is later.

Applications may be made with Jim Shea, Veterans office for Pickaway County. His office is in the Pickaway County Courthouse.

Young Artists Have Displays

The Junior Fine Arts competition at the 1975 Pickaway County Fair is open to any boy or girl under the age of 19. Chairman of the exhibits is Valley Rahe.

Entries will be received from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and will be released from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, Aug. 2.

Exhibitors are limited to three entries in the department. All exhibitors must have membership or exhibitor's tickets.

All drawings must be original. Only articles not previously exhibited at the fair will be accepted. Children's entries must be framed or matted. Oils must be framed.

Categories will be broken into four divisions by age. The youngest category is for children 6 to 8, while the oldest is for 15 to 18-year-olds.

In 1886 the American Federation of Labor was organized with Samuel Gompers as its first president.

Reds Beat Mets, Seaver, 2-1

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've got to get back on the beam," says Pete Rose, the self critic who plays third base on "the best Cincinnati team I've ever been on because of all-around talent."

Rose was feeling frustrated. He had gone 0-for-12 in three games with the Mets. But he wasn't feeling down Thursday after the Reds had beaten Tom Seaver 2-1 to take a victory and a 12½-game National League West lead into today's two-night doubleheader against second-place Los Angeles at Cincinnati.

"There is no way in the world they can stop us as long as we play .500 ball," said Manager Sparky Anderson. The Reds are at .653.

Seaver must be wondering what he has to do to beat the Reds. The tough right-hander gave up just five hits in the six innings he worked, but two of them—with two out in the second inning—drove in the runs that kept him from becoming the major leagues' first 15-game winner this season.

Instead he is 14-6 over-all. And against Cincinnati he's 1-3 this season and 9-16 lifetime. There was some consolation for Seaver, though. He surpassed the 2,000 strikeout mark for his career, only the 27th pitcher in major league history to do so.

"He wasn't himself today," said Rose. "He was a breakingball pitcher today. Maybe that was his plan. It worked on us. We only got two runs off him. This was the first time he's put the collar on me (no hits). But I went for the collar all three days. Maybe I put it on myself."

The toughest part of the game for Seaver was throwing and catching the ball. In the first inning, he seemed to pull something in his back on a pitch. In the second, he twisted his right ankle trying to complete a double play at first base. And in the fifth, he was knocked down when he collided with a runner while making a putout at first.

The ankle twist proved to be costly. And after it happened, with two men out, he walked Dave Concepcion and gave up run-scoring singles to Cesar Geronimo and pitcher Fred Norman, 6-3. The Cincinnati defense and relief pitching made the lead stand up.

New York got four hits in the fifth inning and failed to score. John Sterns opened with a single but was thrown out by right-fielder Ken Griffey when he tried to go to third on Seaver's single. One out later, Felix Millan singled to left, then Seaver was nailed at the plate by left fielder George Foster when he tried to score on Joe Torre's single.

The Mets loaded the bases with one out in the sixth. Then Will McEnaney relieved Norman and got John Sterns to pop up and pinch-hitter Jerry Grote to ground out. And in the ninth, the Mets put runners at first and third with one out. A run scored on Millan's sacrifice fly—but after Torre beat out an infield hit, Rawley Eastwick relieved McEnaney and got Dave Kingman on strikes.

Wind Could Be Factor In 57th Annual PGA

AKRON—Host professional Bobby Nichols points to the weatherman, and more particularly his wind gauge, as the best indicator of scores to be recorded during the 57th PGA Championship here, Aug. 4-10, at the Firestone Country Club.

"The wind—or absence of it—will be the biggest single factor in determining what the winning score will be," said Nichols, who has some experience with winning scores at PGAs.

Nichols holds the PGA competitive record of 271, set in 1964 when he won the title at Columbus Country Club. And while that record has remained untouched for 11 years, he gives the expected field of over 140 of the world's top players an outside shot at matching it.

"Under absolutely ideal conditions, meaning no wind, it may be possible for someone to match that mark," he said. "Ray Floyd shot a 268—12 under par—here in winning the 1969 American Golf Classic, so it can happen."

"Conditions were perfect then, and it could always happen again," Nichols said.

In the two previous PGA Championships contested here, however, the "Monster" prevailed and no one came close to a 271 total. Jay Hebert won in 1960 with a one-over-par 281 total, and Al Geiberger coasted to victory at even-par 280 in 1966.

"The South Course is in great condition, and unless we have extremes of weather over the next two weeks, the course itself will be much less of a factor than the weather in determining where the winner will finish," he noted.

Nichols is defending his 1974 Canadian Open title this week in his first Tour start since being knocked down by lightning at the Western Open on June 27. He'll also play in the Westchester Classic before returning to Akron and the PGA.

"Fortunately, I haven't had any lasting affects from the lightning," he said. "I did go to the Cleveland Clinic last week for a thorough physical examination and, although the complete report isn't in yet, the doctors thought I was in pretty good shape."

In preparing for his role as host pro for the 57th PGA, Nichols has remained in close contact with course superintendent Peter Miller.

"I looked over the entire course late last week with Peter, and I think it's in as fine a condition as possible. The rough isn't extremely long yet, but if we get some rain over the next two weeks, it will be very tough," he reported.

"The greens and fairways are absolutely great, and the fact that the course will be closed to normal play during the week before the PGA will let Miller put the finishing touches on it," he said.

The South Course, at 7,180 yards and with a par of 70, is recognized as one of golf's supreme tests. The layout was redesigned by Robert Trent Jones for the 1960 PGA event, and has been proven a worthy challenge through annual competition in the American Golf Classic and the World Series of Golf.

To provide further insight into the "Monster," Nichols was asked to analyze the course, hole-by-hole.

Robinson Takes Pulse Of Tribe

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP)—The Cleveland Indians forsook batting practice Thursday night to discuss their team's recent bad fortune and their expressions seemed as glum as the rain that later postponed their game.

Manager Frank Robinson locked the clubhouse doors before the Tribe was supposed to face the Texas Rangers.

"I'm looking for answers," Robinson said in reference to the meeting. "I don't understand what's happening. We're not thinking. Our minds aren't sharp. I don't know what's wrong, but I'm going to try to find out."

Since the All-Star break, the Indians have dropped six out of eight games, including Wednesday night's loss in which the Tribe rallied for five runs in the ninth only to lose to the Rangers 9-8.

In that game the Indians committed six errors. An error by Charlie Spikes in the 13th inning helped the Rangers stage a rally.

"The thing that makes losing that game so tough," said Coach Dave Garcia, "is that it would have been so great to win it. If we'd won as we should have, we'd have been really perked up. Now, I don't know."

"We played like we haven't seen a baseball field in six months or like we're just finishing a 30-day trip," Robinson said. "I didn't say anything to them after we lost Wednesday night and I'm glad I didn't. I might have said something I'd be sorry later."

Aluminum Bat Danger Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission warned today that more than five million aluminum baseball and softball bats sold nationwide during the last seven years may be dangerous if their rubber grips are loose.

One death and at least two serious injuries have been associated with the problem, the agency said.

Consumers were urged to check the rubber grips on aluminum bats immediately and not to use them if the grips are loose, worn, torn or deteriorated.

In such event, the aluminum bat could come loose from the grip or the knob at the end of the grip could tear off when the bat is swung, the commission said.

The death and injuries all reportedly involved youngsters who were struck on the head when the bats and grips separated.

The commission said Eaton Corp. of Cleveland, Ohio, was one bat-grip manufacturer involved. Seven bat manufacturers who have used rubber grips are Alcoa Sports Products Co., Santa Fe Springs, Calif.; Easton Aluminum Co. Van Nuys, Calif.; Hillerich & Bradsby, Louisville, Ky.; Reynolds Metals Co., Richmond, Va.; Wilson Sporting Goods Co., River Grove, Ill.; Lannom Manufacturing Co., Tullahoma, Tenn.; and Airlite Aluminum Corp., Kearney, N.J.

The bats were sold under the trade names "Easton," "Adirondack," "Wilson," "H. & B Louisville Slugger," "Reynolds" and "Worth."

Aluminum Bat Danger Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission warned today that more than five million aluminum baseball and softball bats sold nationwide during the last seven years may be dangerous if their rubber grips are loose.

One death and at least two serious injuries have been associated with the problem, the agency said.

Consumers were urged to check the rubber grips on aluminum bats immediately and not to use them if the grips are loose, worn, torn or deteriorated.

In such event, the aluminum bat could come loose from the grip or the knob at the end of the grip could tear off when the bat is swung, the commission said.

The death and injuries all reportedly involved youngsters who were struck on the head when the bats and grips separated.

The commission said Eaton Corp. of Cleveland, Ohio, was one bat-grip manufacturer involved. Seven bat manufacturers who have used rubber grips are Alcoa Sports Products, Co., Santa Fe Springs, Calif.; Easton Aluminum Co. Van Nuys, Calif.; Hillerich & Bradsby, Louisville, Ky.; Reynolds Metals Co., Richmond, Va.; Wilson Sporting Goods Co., River Grove, Ill.; Lannom Manufacturing Co., Tullahoma, Tenn.; and Airlite Aluminum Corp., Kearney, N.J.

The bats were sold under the trade names "Easton," "Adirondack," "Wilson," "H. & B Louisville Slugger," "Reynolds" and "Worth."

Anderson, Curtis Seen Even Better

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals "bomb threat" — quarterback Ken Anderson and wide receiver Isaac Curtis — already one of the most explosive in pro football, will get even better this year, according to strategists on the club.

The time has come to fully exploit their talents, according to Bill Walsh, quarterback and receivers coach for the Bengals.

"If Isaac can catch 50 passes — and that's our goal — we think he can crack 1,000 yards in receptions," he said.

Curtis has been the primary deep threat for the Bengals ever since the club picked the San Diego State speedster in the first round of the 1973 draft.

"Face it, Isaac is one of the two or three fastest men in pro football, if not the fastest. The guy has tremendous hands and maneuverability," said Walsh.

As a rookie, Curtis caught 45 passes for 843 yards and was selected to the Pro Bowl team as the Bengals won the division championship. Last season he caught the ball 30 times for 633 yards.

"He averaged 21 yards per catch last year and one out of every three passes he catches goes for a touchdown," Walsh said.

Despite the Bengals disappointing 7-7 record last year, Anderson led the entire league in passing and broke virtually every club record. His 64.9

per cent completion rate was the highest in the NFL since Sammy Baugh completed 70 per cent of his passes almost 30 years ago.

Walsh is convinced that the pair have yet to reach their full potential.

"This is really Isaac's first training camp. He sat out most of 1973 with an injured Achilles tendon and missed a month last year due to the strike," he noted.

"Right now, he's far more aware of what's happening out there. Ken is improving his ability to stay with Isaac. In the past, Ken has come off Isaac for an alternate receiver when it appeared the secondary was keying toward Isaac." "We're stressing that Ken stay with Isaac until the play develops further," added Walsh.

Curtis, who has run the 100 in 9.3 seconds, said "I'm getting better every year. I'm way ahead of where I was last year at the end of the season. The 24-year-old Curtis called Anderson "a smart passer. He always knows what he's doing."

This year, he said, "it's easier to avoid defenders, read defenses and adjust my patterns. The experience has made things much easier. Speed is great to have, but you can't live on it forever."

"Defenders have to be thinking whether they can stay with me," he added. "They have to respect me."

1 Veteran, 2 Rookies Leave Browns

KENT, Ohio (AP) — A veteran and two rookies on the Cleveland Browns left the team Thursday as the rigors of training camp here begin to take their toll.

The veteran, Dave Sullivan, said he has decided to leave pro football because of knee problems and of not getting enough playing time during his three seasons as a wide receiver with the Browns.

John Zimba, a defensive end who was a fifth round draft choice, left after he became expendable with the acquisition of Ron East from the Houston Oilers.

The Browns also lost linebacker Tom Costello, a free agent from Richmond College, who apparently observed that he was being tested in a position in which he had little chance to survive.

With the winnowing out process begun, the coaches are beginning to assess the ball club. The coaches viewed the film of the initial scrimmage Wednesday. "We saw what we thought we saw," said Forrest Gregg, head coach. "Gerry Sullivan did a particularly fine job at offensive tackle. Most of the backs blocked and ran well."

"Charlie Miller and Cliff Brooks looked good in the defensive backfield. Ron East played well but wasn't in there long. We think we know what he can do," Gregg said.

Chatte Marine Wins Feature

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — With a blazing drive down the stretch, Chatte Marine broke out of the pack Thursday to post a three-length victory in the featured eighth race at River Downs.

It was the first win in seven starts for Chatte Marine, who paid $4.40, $2.60 and $2.20. Wendover finished second, returning $2.80 and $2.40, while the show horse was Real Empress at $3.60.

The 5-7 daily double combination of Pulupyrsox and Bella Audaz was worth $177.20 at River Downs, where a crowd of 4,141 wagered $335,612.

Nicklaus, Weiskopf Lead Tourney

ILE BIZARD, Que. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus didn't wait for the storm to hit.

"Everybody in our group had hit their second shots to the green and we all had it about 20 feet from the hole," Nicklaus said. "We could see the clouds building up and hear the thunder in the distance."

"We just tapped in those little putts," he said, smiling, "just in the interest of speed, and sought shelter. They hadn't called play at that time but it was coming and it could have lightning in it and we just didn't want to get hit."

So Nicklaus, who went six-under-par through 12 holes with his "little tap-in" of 20 feet, was one of the first off the golf course Thursday when a violent thunderstorm held up, for 3 hours and 2 minutes, first-round play in the $200,080 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

Playing conditions changed when the lengthy, violent thunderstorm finally abated and Nicklaus could return to the course. He lost one stroke to par over his six remaining holes but still finished with a course-record, five-under-par 65 and tied close friend Tom Weiskopf for the first round lead in this national championship.

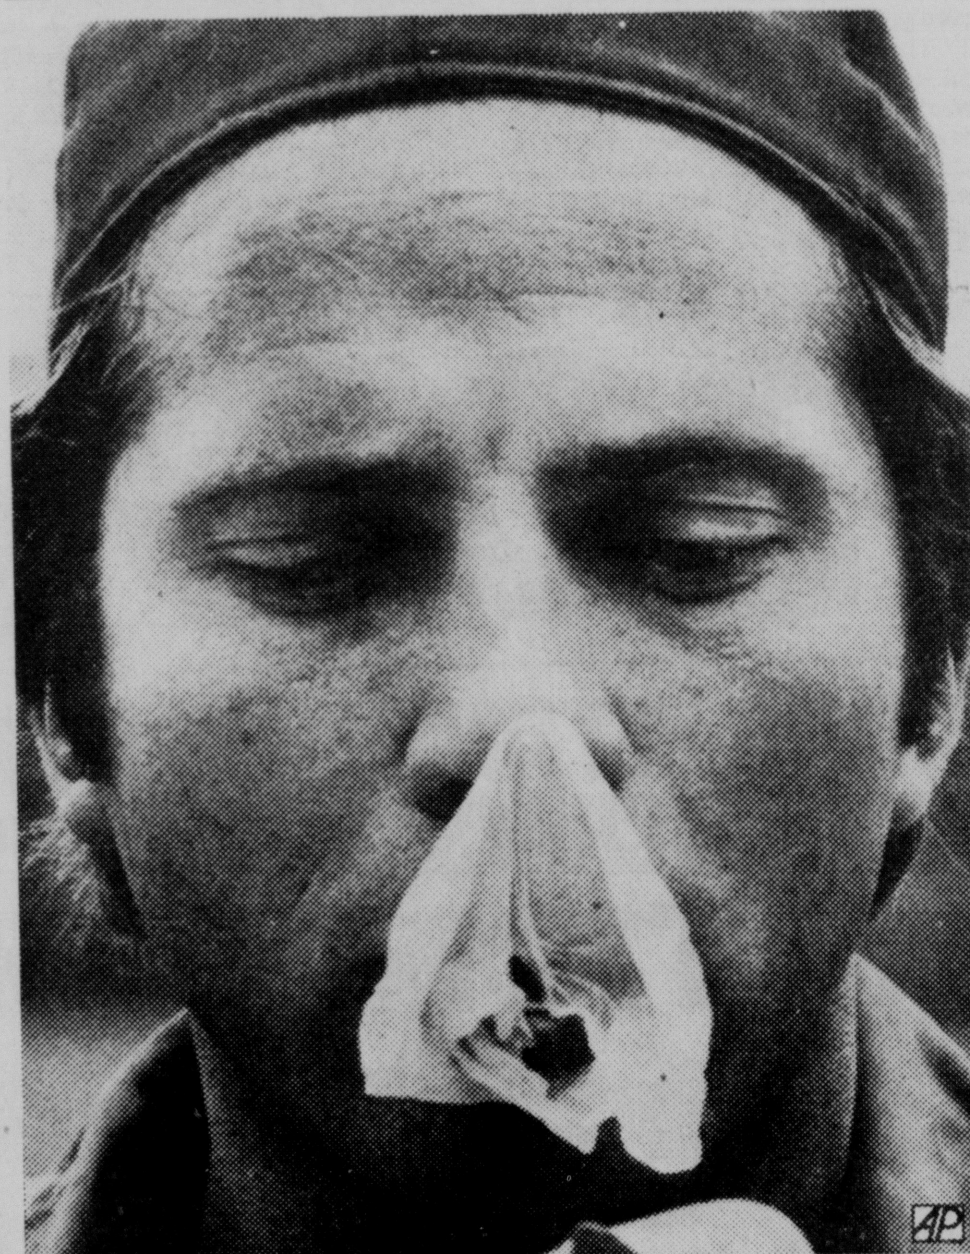

After the long weather delay—Nicklaus sought shelter in a private residence adjoining the 6,628-yard Royal Montreal Golf Club course for the 3 hours and 2 minutes of delay—play was resumed at 7 p.m. EDT and finally halted by darkness at 8:45 p.m. Fourteen players, including British Open champion Tom Watson were stranded and were scheduled to complete their rounds early today.

Panel Approves Consumer Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee has approved legislation designed to protect new homeowners from being stuck with construction bills left unpaid by contractors.

The so-called "mechanics lien bill" would require builders to pay all subcontractors, workers and suppliers before a home is sold, to guarantee that no liens are attached to the property.

Judiciary Chairman Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, said Thursday he would seek a House floor vote on the bill next week.

It's the Boston Red Sox who are hot...but it's the New York Yankees who are sweating in the American League East.

The Red Sox hold an eightgame lead over New York and intend to enhance it as they confront the Yankees tonight in the start of a four-game series.

"New York's eight games behind us and they've got to get a split with us this weekend or it doesn't do them a bit of good," said Carl Yastrzemski after the Red Sox stopped the Minnesota Twins 6-2 Thursday for their 14th

"With the starters we've got, I think we're in pretty good shape. This is by far the best Red Sox team I've played on."

Luis Tiant, one of the premier starters referred to by Yastrzemski, will pitch the series opener in Shea Stadium against New York's Rudy May. Rick Wise, another of those excellent Boston pitchers, stopped the Twins on nine hits Thursday while the Yankees were losing a doubleheader to the Chicago White Sox, 4-3 in 11 innings and 1-0.

"The pressure isn't on us," said Darrell Johnson, Boston's smug manager. "It's on the other teams in the division and we're doing everything right at present."

The Baltimore Orioles, virtually tied with New York for second place, beat the Milwaukee Brewers 10-7 to stay within hailing distance of the Red Sox.

The Detroit Tigers stopped the Oakland A's 5-2 in the only other American League action. Rain postponed the Cleveland-Texas game.

Wise, 13-6, won his sixth straight game and eighth in the last nine decisions while beating Minnesota. He got offensive support from Jim Rice, who wallowed a two-run homer in the first inning, his 16th of the year.

White Sox 4-1, Yankees 3-0

Catcher Brian Downing, the ninth batter in Chicago's lineup, hit his sixth home run of the season, a one-out shot off Dick Tidrow in the 11th inning, to carry Chicago to a dramatic victory over New York in the first game of their doubleheader.

Then Tidrow hit Bill Melton with a pitch with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning, forcing in the run that gave the White Sox their victory in the second game.

Orioles 10, Brewers 7

Jim Northrup and Doug DeCinces drilled run-scoring doubles in a four-run sixth inning, triggering Baltimore to its victory over homer-happy Milwaukee. The Brewers blasted five homers, including Hank Aaron's 743rd career shot.

The Orioles were losing 4-2 when a walk to Lee May triggered their winning rally in the sixth. Northrup doubled home May and took third on the relay throw from the outfield. Then he scored on a wild pitch by Pete Broberg.

Tigers 5, A's 2

Joe Coleman and John Hiller combined on a three-hitter, helping Detroit snap a fourgame losing streak with its victory over Oakland.

Coleman, 8-12, worked 62-3 innings and allowed all three Oakland hits before Hiller came in and recorded his 14th save of the season. Detroit hit three sacrifice flies, two by rookie Jack Pierce.

Willie Wood Seen 1st Black Grid Pilot

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers, once the kingpins of the National Football League, dominate the pro football scene again...but not with the Pack.

Willie Wood, a former All-Pro safety with the Packers when the Green Bay team captured the first two Super Bowls, is expected to become pro football's first black head coach since Fritz Pollard led several teams in the early 1920s when the NFL was an infant.

Wood is "the prime candidate" to succeed Ron Waller, who resigned Wednesday as head coach of the World Football League's Philadelphia Bell. Wood joined the Bell this year as Waller's defensive coordinator. When Waller resigned, he recommended Wood be named his replacement.

Gale Gillingham, Wood's teammate on the Packers, announced his retirement Thursday. The 31-year-old offensive guard was a four-time All-Pro selection during his nine-year NFL career.

A Green Bay spokesman said lineman Malcolm Snider, a seven-year veteran, had informed the team he is also retiring to attend medical school, although the Packers had not received an official document stating his intentions.

Another former Packer, tight end Marv Fleming, still hasn't shown up at the Washington Redskins' training camp. Fleming, who has appeared in five Super Bowls—two with Green Bay and three with the Miami Dolphins—was traded to the Redskins by Miami for the NFL negotiating rights to running back Charley Harraway.

Also missing from the Redskins' camp is running back Duane Thomas, a free agent since May 1. Allen said he had nothing to add to team President Edward Bennett Williams' remarks that Thomas, as of now, is out of the Redskins plans.

Philadelphia Eagles' Coach Mike McCormack admits he would like to have Ted "Mad Stork" Hendricks, but he's afraid of what he might have to give up for the former Packer All-Pro linebacker.

The 6-foot-7, 220-pound Hendricks is a free agent, having played out his option with Green Bay.

That means Hendricks is free to sign with any NFL club willing to pay his price. Eagles' owner Leonard Tose says meeting the salary demand would not be a problem, but McCormack says any club signing Hendricks will be required to give the Packers what Green Bay Coach-General Manager Bart Starr deems "equal compensation."

New England Patriots' defensive back Jack Mildren and former Buffalo Bills' linebacker Dave Washington have also called it quits.

Mildren will become a fulltime vice president of a Florida oil firm. Washington was traded Monday by the Bills to the San Francisco 49ers. But he said Thursday that he will not report to his new team.

Washington, now a Buffalo resident, said his wife Dianne is expecting their third child in September and there are complications.

The Pittsburgh Steelers released rookie offensive tackle Marvin Crenshaw—a sixthround draft choice—after contract negotiations broke down. The former Nebraska star is now considered a free agent.

ILE BIZARD, Que. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus didn't wait for the storm to hit.

"Everybody in our group had hit their second shots to the green and we all had it about 20 feet from the hole," Nicklaus said. "We could see the clouds building up and hear the thunder in the distance."

"We just tapped in those little putts," he said, smiling, "just in the interest of speed, and sought shelter. They hadn't called play at that time but it was coming and it could have lightning in it and we just didn't want to get hit."

So Nicklaus, who went six-under-par through 12 holes with his "little tap-in" of 20 feet, was one of the first off the golf course Thursday when a violent thunderstorm held up, for 3 hours and 2 minutes, first-round play in the $200,080 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

Playing conditions changed when the lengthy, violent thunderstorm finally abated and Nicklaus could return to the course. He lost one stroke to par over his six remaining holes but still finished with a course-record, five-under-par 65 and tied close friend Tom Weiskopf for the first round lead in this national championship.

After the long weather delay—Nicklaus sought shelter in a private residence adjoining the 6,628-yard Royal Montreal Golf Club course for the 3 hours and 2 minutes of delay—play was resumed at 7 p.m. EDT and finally halted by darkness at 8:45 p.m. Fourteen players, including British Open champion Tom Watson were stranded and were scheduled to complete their rounds early today.

Panel Approves Consumer Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee has approved legislation designed to protect new homeowners from being stuck with construction bills left unpaid by contractors.

The so-called "mechanics lien bill" would require builders to pay all subcontractors, workers and suppliers before a home is sold, to guarantee that no liens are attached to the property.

Judiciary Chairman Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, said Thursday he would seek a House floor vote on the bill next week.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — First, the bad news: Lily Tomlin's hour-long special on ABC tonight, her second this year, is the last called for in her contract with the network, according to ABC.

The good news is that her farewell gig displays grade-A humor, writing, acting 'and pace, save for a long closing cocktail lounge drama that proposes a slice of life and produces a bathos sandwich. But I have no beef — it must be lunchtime or something — about the rest of the proceedings. In the Tomlin tradition, they contain some of the sharpest, most perceptive humor at large on TV today. For example, in the opening salvo, she takes those women's hairspray commercials to their logical conclusion.

Posing as Judy Beasley, a flat-voiced housewife who says she is a real person, not an actress, she shows how Sta-Put hairspray keeps her tresses in place no matter what the circumstances. She does this by sitting in a chair atop a platform that rolls through a carwash. Later, she takes on "confession" magazines, noting that "good women" stories always use words like "meat loaf, budget, mending and curtains" while bad women yarns use "throbbing, lurid, sordid, seamy."

This causes a fallen women sketch in which she plays a bored housewife whose sole goal is to have her husband, a mailman, become president. "Ed, why don't you enter a primary or something?" she nags.

She later confides to a housewife neighbor that she and Ed don't have much of a sex life. Try an affair, the neighbor suggests, citing one she'd had with a teen-age boy who'd been baby-sitting for her.

That wouldn't work with Ed, Lily muses: "Since we have no children, he would be suspicious if I hired a baby sitter."

To fill her empty hours, she gets a job as a department store executive, almost has an affair with the lecherous boss — John Byner — but finds true happiness following some sort of plot and the gift of a fur coat and $10,000 in cash.

It's a nifty skit, but the classic in the show is "Dull City," a fable done in documentary style. It concerns a girl who had the misfortune to be born a clown — complete with clown greasepaint and wig. Her problem is that she lives in a city with antifun laws. Those convicted of funning are sent to a center for serious training and taught never to throw pies in peoples' faces.

Gottlieb Daimler of Germany in about 1885 invented the first real motorcycle. He attached a four-cycle piston engine to a bicycle frame.

20. Lots for Sale

This could be a rare opportunity to purchase a restricted building lot with the spaciousness and privacy we all desire, but not easy to locate.

The price of raw land today, plus the cost of streets and utilities, will continue to push lot prices to higher levels and tend to reduce plot sizes.

There are only 12 lots remaining in Brookhill Subdivision, ranging in size from about ½ acre to more than 1 acre. All have city water and underground electric and telephone. There are many nice shade trees and most of these sites are elevated to give a panoramic view of the countryside. Prices range from $4,000 to $8,800 with financing available. You need not build now, but if a new home is in your future plans we encourage you to obtain the land. Lot prices have advanced rapidly in the past 10 years and this trend is quite likely to continue. Contact us today for details on these few remaining choice sites.

Do-Or-Die For Dodgers?

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It's a do-or-die weekend for Walter Alston and the Dodgers.

And while a lot of people seem to feel the Dodgers already have one foot in the coffin and can only step out of it by sweeping four games from Cincinnati this weekend, Alston is as unflappable as ever.

"I feel that we have to win six of our remaining 11 games with the Reds to stand a chance," he blithely announced Thursday. "But no one game is any bigger than another."

Oh, yeah? Try asking his players—like Steve Garvey, for example—and you'll find out differently.

"Until we can get it together against the rest of the teams, it looks like the only way we're going to get close again is in the head-to-head games with Cincinnati," Garvey said. "We need to take this series for more than the obvious reason. Maybe it can help us get our adrenalin going again."

They got it going pretty good on Thursday against St. Louis, routing the Cardinals 8-2. But despite the victory, Los Angeles remained a whopping 12½ games back of the Reds in the National League West going into this evening's two-night doubleheader in Cincinnati.

The Reds retained their lead by beating New York 2-1. In the rest of the league, Atlanta beat Philadelphia 5-4, Houston edged Montreal 6-5 and Chicago defeated San Francisco 4-3. San Diego and

Reds 2, Mets 1

The Reds did a bit of building themselves — building on their dominance of Mets' ace Tom Seaver. They beat him for the 16th time in 25 career decisions and the third time in four decisions this year, all that despite the fact that Seaver surpassed the 2,000 strikeout mark in his career, only the 27th pitcher to do so in major league history. Seaver gave up what proved to be his downfall in the second inning on run-scoring singles by Cesar Geronimo and winning pitcher Fred Norman.

Braves 5, Phillies 4

Phil Niekro hurled a five-hitter and doubled home Atlanta's winning run in a two-run seventh inning to drop the Phils 4½ games behind idle Pittsburgh in the East Division.

With one out in the seventh, Larvell Blanks singled and Biff Pocoroba doubled to break a 33 tie, then Niekro won the game—chasing Larry Christenson in the process—with his double down the right field line.

Astros 6, Expos 5

Larry Milbourne drilled a two-run triple to highlight a four-run sixth inning that carried the Astros past Montreal. Bob Watson's single, a balk by Steve Renko and Milt May's hit tied the score 3-3. Then Roger Metzger singled, both runners scored on Milbourne's shot to right-center field and Milbourne came home on Wilbur Howard's single.

Cubs 4, Giants 3

Gene Hise drove in one run and scored one to lead Chicago past the Giants. The Cubs got two runs in the first inning on a bases-loaded walk and Hise's sacrifice fly, then Hise singled in the fourth, triggering a two-run inning with the scoring coming on a single by pitcher Bill Bonham and Don Kessinger's sacrifice fly.

Do-Or-Die For Dodgers?

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

It's a do-or-die weekend for Walter Alston and the Dodgers.

And while a lot of people seem to feel the Dodgers already have one foot in the coffin and can only step out of it by sweeping four games from Cincinnati this weekend, Alston is as unflappable as ever.

"I feel that we have to win six of our remaining 11 games with the Reds to stand a chance," he blithely announced Thursday. "But no one game is any bigger than another."

Oh, yeah? Try asking his players—like Steve Garvey, for example—and you'll find out differently.

"Until we can get it together against the rest of the teams, it looks like the only way we're going to get close again is in the head-to-head games with Cincinnati," Garvey said. "We need to take this series for more than the obvious reason. Maybe it can help us get our adrenalin going again."

They got it going pretty good on Thursday against St. Louis, routing the Cardinals 8-2. But despite the victory, Los Angeles remained a whopping 12 1/2 games back of the Reds in the National League West going into this evening's two-night doubleheader in Cincinnati.

The Reds retained their lead by beating New York 2-1. In the rest of the league, Atlanta beat Philadelphia 5-4, Houston edged Montreal 6-5 and Chicago defeated San Francisco 4-3. San Diego and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Reds 2, Mets 1

The Reds did a bit of building themselves — building on their dominance of Mets' ace Tom Seaver. They beat him for the 16th time in 25 career decisions and the third time in four decisions this year, all that despite the fact that Seaver surpassed the 2,000 strikeout mark in his career, only the 27th pitcher to do so in major league history. Seaver gave up what proved to be his downfall in the second inning on run-scoring singles by Cesar Geronimo and winning pitcher Fred Norman.

Braves 5, Phillies 4

Phil Niekro hurled a five-hitter and doubled home Atlanta's winning run in a two-run seventh inning to drop the Phils 4 1/2 games behind idle Pittsburgh in the East Division.

With one out in the seventh, Larvell Blanks singled and Biff Pocoroba doubled to break a 33 tie, then Niekro won the game—chasing Larry Christenson in the process—with his double down the right field line.

Astros 6, Expos 5

Larry Milbourne drilled a two-run triple to highlight a four-run sixth inning that carried the Astros past Montreal.

Bob Watson's single, a balk by Steve Renko and Milt May's hit tied the score 3-3. Then Roger Metzger singled, both runners scored on Milbourne's shot to right-center field and Milbourne came home on Wilbur Howard's single.

Cubs 4, Giants 3

Gene Hiser drove in one run and scored one to lead Chicago past the Giants. The Cubs got two runs in the first inning on a bases-loaded walk and Hiser's sacrifice fly, then Hiser singled in the fourth, triggering a two-run inning with the scoring coming on a single by pitcher Bill Bonham and Don Kessinger's sacrifice fly.

SPIRIT TIME AGAIN—Mrs. Doris Gillespie, front center, holds the spirit stick and competition ribbons won by the Circleville varsity and reserve cheerleading squads at a recent clinic at the University of Kentucky. Mrs. Gillespie was just appointed advisor to the group this summer and has as much spirit as the lively ones she coaches. The varsity squad in the back are as follows from Both the varsity and reserve cheerleading squads of Circleville High School were accompanied by their brand new advisor to the National Cheerleader Association Clinic July 6-10. Mrs. Doris Gillespie who recently assumed the duties as cheerleader advisor for the high school accompanied 12 girls to the clinic held at the University of Kentucky.

Mrs. Gillespie, who majored in physical education in college and taught phys ed for eight years, has been in the field of guidance counseling for the past several years. She said she was a junior high cheerleader herself and was advisor for a squad in West Virginia when she was teaching phys ed.

She really got initiated into her new post when she attended the clinic with the Circleville group. She said they were extremely good and received

The reserves from the left are Patricia Caruso, Lisa Lintner, Susan Hill, (Mrs. G.), Tonda Harper and Teresa Tomlinson, captain. excellent ratings. Mrs. Gillespie was not only in charge of her own group, she was also the only adult on the dorm floor holding 27 girls. She said these girls represented three different schools but were placed in her charge since some schools did not send the cheerleader advisor with the squad.

While at the camp, the Circleville varsity squad won four blue ribbons, one for each of the four times they engaged in competition with the other squads. The blue ribbon signifies superior ratings. The varsity squad also won the spirit stick on the second day of competition and kept it until the final day of the camp.

Mrs. Gillespie explains that only 15 spirit sticks are awarded at the clinic for the 85 squads attending. The 15 sticks are awarded daily to the most spirited squads of that particular day. The squads getting the spirit sticks on the final day of competition get to bring them home to display in their schools' trophy cases. Circleville's squads brought their stick home, having won it on the final day.

The reserve squad from Circleville won two red ribbons for outstanding performances on the first two days of competition and then won two blue ribbons on the final two days of competition. The advisor said their improvement was tremendous.

A newcomer to the cheerleader camp atmosphere, Mrs. Gillespie said it was just like a four-day ballgame because the girls dressed in matching outfits and chanted or cheered everywhere they went.

Over 800 girls representing 85 high schools and 21 junior high schools in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, and West Virginia attended the UK cheerleader camp while Circleville's squads were there. A staff of 25 instructors headed by Carol Pojezeznay from the National Cheerleaders Association conducted the clinic. While not instructing at summer camps, these people are university and college cheerleaders across the nation.

The girls' day began at 6:30 a.m. with breakfast in UK's beautiful cafeteria facility. The first session of instruction began at 8 a.m. and the final session ends the day, some 13½ hours later, at 9:30 p.m. The only free time the girls had was during their hour and a half meal breaks. Mrs. Gillespie said her girls spent their free time rehearsing what they had learned in earlier sessions.

On the final day of the clinic the squads were required to perform a random six of the 12 new cheers taught to them during their stay.

Lisa Hughes and Patricia Caruso were selected during the camp to model for the style show. During the show, cheerleading outfits of every description were shown.

Except for Julie Sberna, the entire varsity squad attended the camp last year as reserve cheerleaders. Julie was a varsity cheerleader last year and attended with the varsity squad. This year she has been selected to serve as captain of the squad. Teresa Tomlinson is captain of the reserve squad.

Most of the money for the cheerleaders comes from their parents. Mrs. Gillespie said all parents are reminded of the expense involved when they sign a release statement for their daughters to compete for the post. Some of the money which made possible the trip to UK's clinic did, however, come from the cheerleaders' share of the athletic fund.

Presently, the girls have several money-making projects in mind, the most important of which is the sale of red and black bags for the merchants and individuals who support the Tiger effort.

The Circleville cheerleaders first made and sold the flags in 1973. The finished flag is 32 by 40 and comes complete with a 7-foot pole. Proceeds from the sale will go into the cheerleaders' fund.

Red Cross Board Seeks Headquarters Location

Recently installed officers of Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross were in charge of the Wednesday evening board meeting at the chapter house.

Robert Scranton led discussion on new and continuing services provided to residents of Pickaway County.

Etha Mae Wolford, executive director, told of services to military men, their families and veterans during the past month. She said 153 pints of blood had been collected at the July 3 Bloodmobile visit. She read a communication from Mrs. Naomi Towers, administrative director of the Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Center in Columbus, listing the names of local companies who had contributed toward the cost of the emergency generator to prevent loss of blood to storage due to a power failure.

Local companies contributing are John W. Eshelman and Sons, Container Corporation of America, General Electric, Owens-Illinois and DuPont. The next visit of the Bloodmobile will be Aug. 7th.

For the water safety program, Dave Shank said there were programs in operation in Circleville, Ashville, Gold Cliff and Clarks Lakes. Fifteen instructors have completed 35 courses involving 750 people. Retraining of all instructors will be in July under the supervision of David Griner.

John Stepleton will be conducting another First Aid course beginning
